

MRS. BRUNELLE WAS POISONED

Dead Cat Found in Covered Well at Willow Dale—State Police on Case—Odor of Water Caused Illness

Mrs. Pierre Née Brunelle, wife of the well known Bevidere druggist, died last night at her home, 51 Pond street, after being ill for three weeks, and her death will probably be the cause of an investigation by the state police, for it is believed she has been poisoned by inhaling the vapor of polluted water at her summer home on Bowers avenue, Willow Dale.

Mr. Brunelle when seen by the writer this morning related the following story relative to his wife's death:

"Three weeks ago I left in the morning and told my wife I would go to the camp in Willow Dale and get things in shape for we expected to move there a few days later. My wife, who was then enjoying the best of health, told me if the weather were favorable she would join me in the afternoon.

"In the latter part of the afternoon she came to the camp in the automobile with her son, Lucien D., and at that time was in perfect health, the automobile ride across the country having greatly refreshed her. Shortly afterward she was thirsty and went to take a drink of water, but when she inhaled the odor of the water, on putting it to her lips, was overcome by the foul smell. She became very weak and vomited. She was immediately carried to a bed and a short time later when she had recovered sufficiently she hurried her home in the automobile.

"Dr. James P. McDermott and Dr. Pierre Brunelle were summoned in haste to the home, 51 Pond street, where my wife was very sick. But despite medical attendance she passed away last night.

"Shortly after the visit to the camp I noticed the Tynesboro police and, with the assistance of Lieut. Martin Maher of this city, an investigation was made and the body of a dead cat was found in the well, and to all appearances the cat had been in the well since last winter. The opening of the well was covered with a large wooden box and surrounded with gravel in such a way that a mouse could not have gained admittance unless some one lifted the box."

It is said that the police learned that the cat had been seen in Willow Dale during the winter months. The state police may be called on the case, for many are of the opinion that the cat was thrown into the well for the purpose of polluting the water. The case is a mysterious one, and Mr. Brunelle says he will spare no time or money to clear up the mystery.

Deceased was well known in Lowell, where she lived for many years. She was aged 50 years, and her maiden name was Virginie Lemieux. She is survived by a husband, four children, Lucien R., Blanche B., Marie Etta L. and Paul H., her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elie Lemieux of Hilliard, North Dakota, a sister, Mrs. Joseph Plante of Hilliard, North Dakota, and a brother, Arthur Lemieux in Florida.

Mr. Brunelle is completely overcome with grief and he believes that his wife has been the victim of wicked malice. The case is one of the most mysterious that has engaged the attention of the police for many years.

DIST. ATTY. CALLS THE ALDERMEN

To Attend Investigation of Municipal Affairs Tomorrow

Grand Jury Expected to Take Up the Brown Case

District Attorney John J. Higgins called at the city hall this morning for the purpose of inviting the members of the city council to be present at the court house in Gorham street tomorrow forenoon at 10 o'clock. While the council members who talked with the district attorney allowed that their presence at the court house was requested in connection with the grand jury investigation of the charges preferred by Mayor O'Donnell against Commissioner George H. Brown, the district attorney did not say so. He simply wanted them for the purpose of investigation.

Mr. Higgins called at the mayor's office but the mayor had gone to Rogers hall school. He said he did not want to summon members of the municipal council to give evidence before the grand jury but he requested their presence in connection with an investigation having to do with municipal affairs. The district attorney said he would like to have anybody familiar with city affairs to present themselves at the court house.

TRAINS CRASH IN LAWRENCE

Many Injured When Express Ran Into Shuttle Train—Cars Caught Fire—Locomotive Damaged

LAWRENCE, June 3.—A passenger train on the southern division of the Boston & Maine railroad, bound north from Boston, ran into a shuttle train which operates between the North and South stations in that city today. Several persons were injured.

Three Seriously Injured

Of the number, three were so seriously injured that it was necessary to remove them to a hospital. The others were treated by physicians who had been called to the station and they later went to their homes.

The accident occurred at the South station, into which the shuttle train, composed of a locomotive, combination snorter and baggage car and a day coach was backing. The Boston train should have been stopped in the station but overran and the engine ploughed half way through the passenger coach at the rear of the shuttle train.

Coach Caught Fire

The wrecked coach caught fire and was destroyed.

All of the injured were in this car. Those on the Boston train were not harmed though they were roughly shaken when the collision occurred and the locomotive of the train was considerably damaged.

The shuttle train runs frequently between the North and South stations, the locomotive drawing the train on the trip to the North station and then backing to the South station. It stops just inside the trainshed of the South station and at a supposedly safe distance from the other trains entering from the south.

Trains Should Stop

Had the Boston train made its usual stop the accident would have been avoided, it was said. How the engineer came to let his train run through the shed until it struck the other train was not determined at once.

The Injured

The list of injured included: Mrs. Hager Hyde, 61, 13 Acton street, Lawrence, severely burned about the head, removed to the General hospital.

A. W. Howard, 35th street, New York city, abrasion of hip, taken to the hospital.

Michael Hensley, 351 Elm street, arm and shoulder cut and bruised; taken to Cottage hospital.

Mrs. F. N. Chandler, 9 Kendrick street, cut and bruised, removed to her home in auto.

A. A. Korby, 375 Elm street, side hurt; taken home in taxicab.

Sarah Harding, 499 Essex street, injury to stomach, removed to her home. E. A. Samia, 209 Oak street, leg hurt removed to his home. Lewis Hyde, 13 Acton street, left arm cut; removed to home. Conductor Fred A. Redell, 204 South Union street, bruised and badly shaken up; removed to his home.

SUPERIOR COURT CASES

Boston Elevated Case on Trial a Second Time

ENGINEER SUES FOR $25,000 FOR ALLEGED INJURY

Case of Leonardis vs. P. J. Riley in Jury Waived Session—Divorce Cases This Afternoon

The closing of the Coughlin vs. Swain land suit occurred at the opening of the superior court, civil session, at half past nine o'clock this morning, when Judge Pratt delivered a long charge to the jury. That body then retired to deliberate on the case and about noon returned a verdict for the defendant. The case was one, which arose out of alleged misrepresentations by the defendant to the plaintiff in the sale of some land in Wilmington.

Boston Elevated Case

Next called was a suit brought by

Ernest Lyons against the Boston Elevated railway for injuries alleged to have been received through an explosion caused by the defective construction of an engine at the power plant. The case had been tried before in the court at Cambridge and at the conclusion, the plaintiff's counsel petitioned the court to set aside the verdict on grounds of the discovery of new evidence. It is said that Judge Fox took a view and then complied with the request of the plaintiff's attorney and set aside the verdict. Mr. Lyons and Spain represent the plaintiff with Mr. Drew for the defense. Plaintiff was an engineer in the power plant and one morning upon his opening the valve, according to his statements, the engine did not start. He opened it further and still further, and then there was an explosion. He said that the next thing he knew, he was in the hospital, and as he described it, very badly cut and otherwise injured. The damages asked are $25,000.

The defendant replying to the charge, denies in general the material allegations of the plaintiff and alleges assumption of risk.

The first witness was Mr. Lyons who testified as to the operation of the engine and to the particulars of the accident in question. At the opening, the attorney with the aid of a chart, explained the parts of the engine to the jury. Mr. Lyons was on the stand until the noon recess.

Jury Waived Session

In the jury waived session, the case of P. Leonardis vs. P. J. Riley, an action of contract in which the plaintiff seeks to recover an amount in payment for a quantity of rags which he alleges were sold and delivered to the defendant, was resumed. J. J. Devine, Esq. represents Mr. Riley, while the plaintiff's counsel is Lawyer Goldman.

There were several witnesses this morning including Mr. Riley, the latter telling his story regarding the transaction. The plaintiff's counsel placed upon the stand employees of the Boston and Maine railroad in an effort to ascertain the freight rates from their knowledge and testimony, but their testimony was excluded by Judge Jenney. The case occupied the court until near noon when a number of uncontested divorce actions were to be heard. Judge Jenney reserved decision.

GREEN VS. BARRETT CASE

In the case of Greene vs. Barrett, James J. Kerwin has been agreed upon as auditor; the facts will be presented to him and he will make a finding. This case came up in the supreme judicial court at Boston this forenoon and the auditor was agreed upon. The case is one of mandamus proceedings and Mr. Greene seeks to be reinstated as substitute call man in the local fire department. Mr. Greene was discharged from the department five or six years ago.

WOOD OFFERS NO DEFENSE

Prosecution in "Dynamite" Trial Rested Today—Wood's Attorney Requests Verdict of Not Guilty

BOSTON, June 3.—The prosecution rested today in the trial of President Wood of the American Woolen Co., Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, who are charged with conspiring with John J. Breen of Lawrence and the late Ernest W. Pitman of Andover to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence to discredit the striking textile workers in January, 1912.

After a few minutes consultation following the closing of the government's case, Attorney Hurlbut announced that the case for Wood also rested. He said that his client would offer no defense and requested the court to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty on the indictment of Mr. Wood.

LUNCHES FOR ALL PUPILS

Advocated by Alderman Brown Before Municipal Board

School Board Asked to Investigate and Report

In the absence of Mayor O'Donnell, who was in attendance at the exercises of graduation at Rogers Hall school, and the president of the council, Alderman Andrew P. Barrett, who was engaged in the supreme judicial court at Boston, Alderman Lawrence Cummings presided at the regular meeting of the municipal council held in the old council chamber at city hall this forenoon. In the absence of City Clerk Flynn, who was also engaged in the supreme judicial court at Boston, Assistant City Clerk McCarthy acted as clerk of the meeting after having been duly sworn by Mr. Cummings.

There was a big grist of business to come before the meeting, but because of the absence of two members of the council, the bulk of the business was put over to Thursday forenoon.

The first business before the meeting was the disposal of petitions for pole locations, wire attachments, etc., by the Lowell Electric Light Corporation and the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The Lowell Electric Light Corporation was given a hearing on its petition for permission to construct and maintain conduits, with the necessary wires and cables in Paige street, from manhole No. 65 on Bridge street westward about 100 feet, and action was deferred, as was action on the petition by the same company to erect one pole in Canton street, between Princeton and Middlesex streets.

Action Was Deferred

At the last meeting of the council Commissioner Donnelly introduced an order to borrow $31,000 for painting, repairing and reconstructing the following bridges: Moody street bridge over Merrimack river, $18,000; Aiken street bridge over Merrimack river, $50,000; bridges in Howard, Woburn and Newhall streets, $500; East Merrimack street bridge over Concord river, $530; Cambridge street bridge, $500; Moody street bridge over canal, $325; Market street bridge, $250; Pawtucket bridge over Merrimack river, $575; Lawrence street bridge, $575; Lincoln street bridge, $225; Plain st. bridge, $700. The order came up for consideration today. The action on the order was deferred to Thursday at 11 a. m.

Another Holdover

The mayor's order to borrow $1000 for the erection of a new barn at the Chelmsford Street hospital to replace the one burned several months ago came up for consideration and because of his absence action was postponed until Thursday morning.

Lunch for School Children

Commissioner Brown moved and it was voted that the school committee be requested to make an investigation of the question of providing a lunch for all of the children in all of the public schools.

Mr. Brown, in introducing the matter, said:

"The city of Springfield, a very progressive municipality, has adopted the system of school lunches. I believe the same system should be adopted here if it can be done at a reasonable expense. I am fully aware that this is a matter which would properly come under the jurisdiction of the school committee, and I have every confidence in the ability of that body to put such a system into effect if it be deemed wise.

Therefore I move that the school committee be requested to make an investigation of the question of providing a lunch for all of the children in all of the public schools, and that they be requested to procure all information available on the subject, and present the same to the municipal council on or before August 15th, 1913, in order that some action may be taken by this body, if deemed advisable toward making an appropriation for that purpose before the beginning of the next school year.

Greenhauge School Addition

It was voted that the municipal council authorize and instruct the commissioner of public property and licenses to accept for and in behalf of the municipal council, the plans and specifications submitted by Henry L. Bourke for the addition to the Frederick T. Greenhauge school, said plans and specifications having been approved by vote of the school committee pursuant to section 55, chapter 615 of the acts of 1911; said vote having been passed by said committee, August 5, 1912.

After being in session but a few minutes the council adjourned to Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

GEORGE A. NELSON DEAD

Assistant City Engineer
Passed Away Today

George A. Nelson, assistant civil engineer for the city of Lowell, died this morning at the Lowell General hospital. He had been ill for several weeks and had been suffering for months from nervous breakdown. He spent several weeks in the country within the last few months in an endeavor to recuperate and returned to work at a time when he was not physically equal to the task. He was taken to the hospital about six weeks ago.

Mr. Nelson was considered one of the very best engineers ever to graduate from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and would have been widely known but for the fact that he was a retiring disposition. The big construction companies and the heads of big engineering problems knew of Mr. Nelson's ability as an engineer, and on more than one occasion he refused a salary of $5000 a year, preferring to remain in Lowell. When the Hudson river tube or tunnel was being constructed William G. McAdoo, now secretary of the treasury, offered Mr. Nelson $5000 to join the auxiliary engineering corps. Mr. Nelson said at that time he did not think his health was good enough to take chances on work of that nature.

Besides being an engineer of acknowledged superiority, Mr. Nelson was an accomplished amateur photographer, and a photograph taken by him in Lowell won a silver medal at the International salon in Germany several years ago. The subject of the picture was a Lowell cobbler by the name of McElroy, and it was considered one of the very best pictures on exhibition where photographers from all countries competed.

Nelson was born in Lexington, Mass., and came to Lowell in 1883. He became connected with the city engineering department shortly after his arrival here, and besides being a very capable man, he was very genial and very likeable. He made friends readily and kept them because he always proved himself worthy of the friendship of his fellow man. He had charge of the bridge work for the street department and supervised all of the general engineering work for the water department. He had photographs of about all of the jobs supervised by him, especially bridge work, for he always maintained that a picture spoke louder than words. He thought that one could get a better idea of the progress made on a certain job by seeing pictures that were taken from week to week or month to month, than from a detailed account in writing.

City Engineer Kearney received the sad news of Mr. Nelson's death at his office at city hall this forenoon, and he was visibly affected by it. Mr. Kearney said that Mr. Nelson was the most conscientious man he had ever known. "He was a hard worker, mentally," said Mr. Kearney, "and was intensely interested in anything that he had anything to do with. He was never hasty in arriving at a conclusion and always tried to see things from the public view-point as well as from his own. The city of Lowell has lost a very valuable servant and I think it will be impossible to replace him."

Mr. Nelson was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, and the Merrimack Valley Alumnus Association of Technology of which he was a former president. He is survived by a brother and sister.

Chauffeur Cross-Examined

BOSTON, June 3.—The cross-examination of Arthur Piers, the chauffeur who testified yesterday at the so-called conspiracy trial in the superior court, was resumed today. Piers, a taxi-cab chauffeur, was produced by the government yesterday in an effort to connect President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Co., Frederick Atteaux, a dye manufacturer, and Dennis J. Collins, a dog fancier, with the alleged plot to "plant" dynamite in Lawrence to discredit the strikers during the Lawrence textile mill strike last January. According to his testimony yesterday, the witness drove Atteaux from the residence of Mr. Wood to the corner of Franklin and Washington streets, this city, to a Court street saloon, back of Franklin street and then to the clubhouse of the Boston Athletic association on the evening of January 12, 1912, the date on which the dynamite was "planted." The witness was under the cross-examination by Daniel A. Coakley, counsel for Atteaux, when court adjourned yesterday.

Piers's Testimony Important

The importance of Piers's testimony to the state lies in the fact that J. J. Breen, who has been convicted of distributing the dynamite, has testified that Atteaux paid him for the work and made no payment when they met at the corner of Franklin and Washington streets on the night of Jan. 12, 1912. When Piers resumed the stand, Daniel A. Coakley, counsel for Atteaux, questioned him about a conversation between the witness and Frank Neel, a friend, in reference to Piers's appearance in court the next day. Piers could not recall telling Neel that Police Inspector Lynch, who summoned him to the district attorney's office late Saturday night, said to him:

"We're not going to arrest you; we just want you to go down and tell the district attorney about that trip of yours from Wood's house to Franklin street."

Piers said that Lynch made no such statement to him, and that if he (the witness) had told such a story to Neel it was untrue. Neither could Piers remember saying to Neel, "They (the district attorney's staff) knew all about it; they said that the man I took to Franklin street met Breen."

The witness said the district attorney asked him if he had taken his passenger to a saloon on Court street. Piers was positive he did not say to Neel, "I said that I took the man to a barroom but could not remember what the street was I was on."

"In Right" With Police
Mr. Coakley referred to a conversation between the witness and a fellow chauffeur named Peterson on Sunday night. Piers said he talked with Peterson but was unable to recall what was said. Piers could not remember saying to Peterson regarding his visit to the district attorney's office: "They treated me fine down there; they gave me cigars and used me right. If I ever get 'pinched' again I'm in right."

District Attorney Pelletier then asked the witness to tell how he was able to remember the incidents of his trip on the evening of Jan. 19, 1912. Piers said he thought it was "queer" that a passenger from Wood's house would go into the Court street barroom and "it looked queer" to him when the passenger went back a second time to meet the same man at the same corner.

Mr. Coakley objected vigorously to the testimony and saved his exceptions when Judge John C. Crosby ruled that the testimony might stand so far as it indicated how the witness could recall the incidents.

When the district attorney offered in evidence the taxi-cab company's records of Piers's movements on Jan. 19, 1912, Henry F. Hurlburt, counsel for Wood, objected to their admission as against his client and the court said it would admit them only as against Atteaux.

Thereupon Mr. Coakley objected and the court said it would allow the taxi-cab testimony to go in but would exclude the testimony of the taxi-cab company which had also been offered by the prosecution.

Card Exhibited

The audience at today's inquiry thinned down to four within the first hour. Senator Dillingham testified he had no personal interest in any business affected by the tariff or other legislation and represented no one who had. He could not remember the names of persons who had talked with him except a Mr. Ulton of New York who urged that no duty be put on green fur. He knew of no lobby or the use of money to affect legislation.

Other senators testified they knew of no undue influence and told of their personal interests. In the list of 135 names which Senator Penrose gave the committee was made up of manufacturers, labor leaders, attorneys, importers and others who feared they would be affected by tariff changes.

The steel industry and coal interests of Pennsylvania have had no permanent representatives in Washington for many years, Senator Penrose said. Their custom of keeping representatives in Washington, has died out ten or twelve years ago. He estimated that not more than 40 per cent. as many persons had come to Washington on tariff business this year as compared with four years ago, but reiterated that the persons here now were at previous tariff revisions.

The next witness, Albert L. Marden, agent of the taxi-cab company, testified that he could not tell from personal knowledge whether the exhibit was a record for 1911 or 1912. He examined a great number of other cards bearing serial numbers preceding and following the number on the disputed exhibit and all of them were dated 1912.

Marden testified that Ernest W. Pitman, the Andover contractor, who is alleged to have supplied the dynamite and who committed suicide at the beginning of the grand jury investigation of the alleged conspiracy, was an official of the taxi-cab company.

"Is Mr. William M. Wood a customer of your company?" asked Mr. Pelletier.

"I object," interposed Mr. Hurlburt. "How can this be material?" rejoined the district attorney, "as we wish to show bias on the part of this witness."

The court excluded the question as incompetent. After a short conference between counsel at the bench, Mr. Pelletier announced that counsel had agreed as to certain facts which would tend to indicate that the disputed taxi-cab card was issued in 1912.

PEACE AMONG ALLIES

Prospects for Settlement Are Improving

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Capt. and Mrs. America Walton, of 22 Apple street, observed their golden wedding yesterday. A large number of relatives and friends of the happy couple called on them during the evening and showered them with congratulations and costly gifts, showing the esteem in which both the captain and his wife are held.

During the evening an informal musical program was rendered and a dainty luncheon was served. There were friends present from Waltham, Woburn, Providence, Springfield and other places, and many letters were received from friends and old acquaintances in Maine and other places.

America Walton was born on Franklin plantation, Oxford county, Maine, August 17, 1815. At the age of ten he moved to Peru, Me., with his parents, where he received his early education. He came to Lowell at the age of 23 and secured employment at the Lowell Bleachery. Later he joined Co. B of the City Guards, and in 1869 he went to Fatten, Me., there enlisting as a private in Co. B of the Eighth Maine regiment on Aug. 3, 1861.

During his service Captain Walton was shot twice, neither wound, however, proving serious. In 1882, after being made sergeant and lieutenant he was promoted to captain.

Mrs. Sophronia H. Dow Walton was born in Avon, Me., in 1810. She was married to Capt. Walton on June 1, 1833. The couple have two daughters, Mrs. M. E. Kittredge and Mrs. William F. Dean, Jr., both of this city, as well as three grandsons, Frank W., Lieut. Paul E. and Guy M. Kittredge.

GRADUATION AT ROGERS HALL SCHOOL WITH ADDRESS BY PROF. MILLER OF CHICAGO

ROGERS HALL SCHOOL.

The graduation exercises of the Rogers Hall school were held this morning at the school buildings on Rogers street and were largely attended by relatives and friends of the graduates. There were sixteen in the class this year and ten states were represented by the graduates.

Previous to the exercises which were held in the gymnasium a reception took place in the drawing-rooms and the graduating class was assisted in receiving by the following ladies: Mrs. A. G. Pollard, Mrs. Franklin Nourse, Miss N. P. H. Robbins, Mrs. John Jacob Rogers and Miss Parsons, the latter principal of the school. The reception was continued from 10:30 until 11 o'clock and the graduation exercises commenced promptly at 11, the appointed hour.

The gymnasium was beautifully decorated with flowers and the seating capacity was well occupied. The exercises were opened by the Rev. Charles T. Billings, who offered prayer. Frank Justus Miller, Ph.D., professor and dean in the University of Chicago, delivered a very instructive address, taking for his theme the question, "Does Education Educate?"

Mr. Miller said in part: "It is the general opinion throughout the country that education is the solution of all problems. A brief history of education in ancient times will show how education has been progressing and how when we have vocational training, we have the feeling that we have spoken the last word. All trainings, however admirable, fail to reach the heart of the situation and we are still far from the end. We need those principles of reverence for all that which is sacred for our parents, for women, and children. We should be trained to feel responsible for others and should have that feeling of obligation for the welfare of young people. The person with an education, who has a college education, has put himself in debt and should give back to society in some form or other what he has received."

Mr. Miller closed his talk by referring to that list of questions that have been so often published and which if answered in the affirmative designate that the person is educated. He stated that he believed the one who could answer the ten questions in the affirmative was a truly educated person.

Rev. Allan Conant Perlin, vice president of the board of trustees adressed the class and presented the diplomas after which Miss Gertrude Helen Hawxhurst, president of the senior class, presented the school with two beautiful antique chairs as a gift from the class. They were accepted by the Rev. Appleton Grannis, of St. Anne's church who, in behalf of the school, thanked the class for the beautiful gifts. Rev. Mr. Grannis also stated that it was possible that an education building would be given to the school in the near future, by the alumni.

The class motto is "Ride, Si Sapis."

The Graduates

The members of the graduating class of 1913 are: Barbara Brown, Lowell; Grace Campbell Coleman, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Gertrude Washburn Dexter, Lowell; Elizabeth Adelaide Greenburg, Fla.; Harriet Hasty, Paragould, Ark.; Gertrude Helen Hawxhurst, Evanston, Ill.; Ruth Hulbert, Everett, Wash.; Dorothy Kessinger, Vincennes, Ind.; Lydia Ann Langdon, Vincennes, Ind.; Lili Marie Lieber, Indianapolis, Ind.; Elizabeth Beatrice Miller, West Falmouth, Emile Marie Ordway, Boston; Kathryn Redway, Lowell; Lillis Katharine Towle, Bangor, Me.; Beatrice Ellsworth Walker, Montpelier, Vt.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM UP AGAIN IN CONGRESS;
NEW PLAN TO BAR INFUX OF UNDESIRABLES

FACING A NEW LIFE HERE

WASHINGTON, June 3.—To carry out the recommendations of the immigration commission without running foul of the literacy test which led to the veto of the Dillingham-Burnett bill of last session by President Taft, Senator Dillingham of Vermont has embodied in a new bill a provision to restrict undesirable immigrants. The Dillingham plan limits immigration of all of any nationality, exclusive of temporary visits, in any fiscal year to 10 per cent. of the number of persons of such nationality resident in the United States at the time of the census next preceding, but the minimum number of any nationality admissible in any fiscal year shall not be less than 5,000. Countries of the western hemisphere are exempted from the operation of the provision. The bill provides that when the maximum number of any nationality has been admitted all other aliens of such nationality who may apply for admission during the same fiscal year shall be excluded except that aliens returning for a temporary visit abroad and aliens coming to join near relatives, as well as members of professional and business classes, may be admitted without reference to such maximum number. It also provided, that the secretary of labor may admit aliens in excess of the maximum number when, in his opinion, such action is justifiable as a measure of humanity.

Transportation companies are subject to a fine of $100 for each alien brought to the United States in excess of the maximum number allowed. "The average annual immigration from Austria-Hungary during the last ten years," said Mr. Dillingham, "has been approximately 220,000, but under the bill immigration from that country would be limited to 167,000 annually, at least until the census of 1920 afforded a new basis for computation. Immigration from Italy has averaged 207,000 annually, but future immigration from that country would be limited to about 134,500, while Greece would be limited to 10,000 as compared with an average of about 20,000 in recent years. Apparently immigration from Turkey would be cut down about one-half. Of all the principal sources of southern and eastern European immigration Russia alone would seem to be little affected, as under the proposed law 173,500 immigrants could be admitted from that country annually as compared with an average of 25,000 immigrants in recent years and under the proposed law could send 250,000."

SEVENTEENTH YEAR OF PASTORATE

Rev. N. W. Matthews
Honored by His Flock
Last Night

The vestry of the Gorham Street Primitive Methodist church was the scene last night of a reception to the pastor, Rev. N. W. Matthews, and a testimonial to Rev. Jabez Bell, a returned missionary from West Africa. Owing to ill health Mr. Bell was forced to give up his work in West Africa and he sailed today for England, his old home.

Mr. Matthews, for whom the reception was planned, is now starting on the 17th consecutive year of his ministry at the Gorham street church. In the receiving line besides Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were Rev. and Mrs. Hesford of the Lawrence Street Primitive Methodist church; Rev. J. T. Miller, now of Methuen, but formerly pastor of the Lawrence Street church; Rev. Jabez Bell, Eli Turner and Joseph Wilmet.

The exercises opened with a hymn by the congregation, following which was prayer by Rev. J. T. Miller. Rev. Matthews sang a song, after which there were brief addresses by Joseph Sutcliffe, a delegate to the general conference, and by Rev. Mr. Hesford. Mrs. Norris, president of the Ladies' Aid society of the church, presented a handsome bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Matthews.

Joseph Wilmet, superintendent of the Sunday school, spoke briefly, and Miss Susie Taylor gave a vocal solo in a pleasing manner. Rev. Jabez Bell told something of the work in which he had been engaged for many years in Fernando Po, and then Mrs. Robert Mountford, on behalf of the Good Templars, presented a handsome basket of flowers to Rev. Mr. Matthews. Mr. Matthews made hap-

After the exercises, light refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid society of the church. Thomas Gardner, a trustee of the church, had general supervision of the exercises, and the ushers were: James Mountford, George Higginbottom, Richard Campbell, Harry Jepson, Richard W. Potter, Fred Potter, Orrin Taylor, Herbert Potter, Frank Killenby, Albert Fielding and Bertrand Nield. J. Edward Leth was the piano accompanist of the evening.

COMMISSIONER BARRETT

Wants Big Motor Fire Engine for Lowell

SAW ONE ON DEMONSTRATION AT CHELSEA

Mayor Willard Invited Officials From Other Cities to Witness the Test

Commissioner Barrett says that Lowell's flying squadron and all automobile fire apparatus will never be complete until the city has acquired a powerful motor fire engine.

Mr. Barrett went to Chelsea a few days ago and witnessed the official test of the most powerful fire engine in the world, and incidentally the big machine demonstrated its fire-fighting qualities for the benefit of "the movies." The machine was built by the Robinson Fire Apparatus Mfg. Co. of St. Louis and is known as the Robinson Monarch type.

It is an automobile gasoline-pumping engine, capable of traveling a mile a minute, throwing four streams of water twice the distance of the ordinary fire engine, and pumping 1200 gallons of water a minute, equal to two steam engines. In addition to being a pumping engine, it is a chemical engine and hose cart, carrying 1200 feet of hose, and is equipped with two 25-foot ladders.

Speaking of the test, Mr. Barrett said: "It was the finest exhibition I ever witnessed and I would not have missed it for a good deal. Why the machine is almost a modern fire department in itself. It could not be said either that the test was not on the level for it was conducted by Chief Engineer George Booth of the National Board of Fire Underwriters and his assistant engineer."

"Mayor Edward E. Willard ordered the machine two months ago, after recommending in his inaugural that Chelsea should equip herself with the best fire apparatus obtainable in order to prevent another conflagration such as that of five years ago. Mayor Willard invited me to the test and from all over the country to witness the test and a majority of those invited were present."

"The test took place on the water front, where the machine was tested at draughting from the harbor and again at the Chelsea city hall. There was a 14-foot draught from the river and the engine delivered 266 gallons of salt water per minute for 48 minutes. At the city hall with the four streams going at once the machine pumped 1332 gallons a minute. It climbed steep hills at the rate of 18 miles an hour."

MOTHER JONES REJOICES AS SENATE ORDERS INQUIRY INTO COAL FIELDS

al legislature avowedly sets out to inquire into the official acts of a state and the conduct of justice by its governor and courts. This feature of the resolution caused the most bitter debate in the discussion which preceded its adoption. While carefully worded, the section in question directed an inquiry into the arrest and imprisonment of citizens in violation of the laws and constitution of the United States. The reference was to the military tribunals which since the proclamation of martial law in the Paint Creek district, has sentenced persons to terms of from one to five years, including Mother Jones. Under the authority of the resolution the senate, through the education and labor committee, will look into charges of non-compliance in West Virginia, of violation of the immigration laws, of interference with the mails and post offices and of violation of the constitutional laws of the United States in the trial of citizens by a military tribunal. It will examine reported combinations among operations in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act and alleged discrimination by immigration authorities at ports of entry and determine whether arms and explosives were imported into Paint Creek for improper use. The terms of the authorization are so broad that the committee will be able to inquire into anything and everything which figured in the troubles between the miners and the operators. The investigation into the recent coal strike, its causes and results. The investigation, which is to be conducted by a subcommittee of five members of the committee of education and labor, is believed to be almost without precedent in the history of the government in that a branch of the nation-

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Mother Jones, the aged labor agitator, who is known the country over and who was recently released after three months' imprisonment for her activities in stirring up trouble in the West Virginia soft coal fields welcomed the announcement that the government was going to investigate conditions in the territory where she had been chief agitator. She was in New York when the announcement was made that the senate would appoint a special committee of five to probe the alleged oppressive conditions in West Virginia, and she determined to come here to place all the facts she knew before the investigators. The Korn resolution, which the senate passed, calls for an investigation into the recent coal strike, its causes and results. The investigation, which is to be conducted by a subcommittee of five members of the committee of education and labor, is believed to be almost without precedent in the history of the government in that a branch of the nation-

SHOT WIFE THEN SUICIDES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 2.—Julian Forgue shot and probably fatally wounded his wife today when she refused to return to live with him and then killed himself with a bullet in the head. Forgue, a machinist about 41 years old, has been living apart from his wife for about two months. Today when he came to her house in Orlenville he was told she was not in but he found her after a search and shot her without a word. Then turning, he started to flee but having difficulty unlatching the door he put the revolver to his temple and fired. Mrs. Forgue is not expected to live.

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Given Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After many failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful remedy for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who uses it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair but wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restores all balding hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, 4 drachms; Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed add a few drops of Ro-Kalon Perfume, which mixes perfectly with the other ingredients. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Most druggists now carry in stock, already mixed and ready for immediate use this wonderful hair tonic. It is labelled "Lavona Compound." The mixing is done at the laboratories in New York, Paris and London, which for years have supplied druggists with Lavona de Composee. Ask your druggist for Lavona Compound and you will get a tonic identical with that which you would have if you were to buy the ingredients and mix them yourself according to the original celebrated formula given above. Lavona Compound is sold on the satisfaction guaranteed, or money back plan.

NINE HOURS IN ELEVEN BILL

Is Not Permissive Says Attorney General—Amendments to the Salisbury Beach Bill

That the so-called "nine-hours-in-eleven" bill for street railway employees is not permissive, and if enacted into law would not permit employees to work more than the hours specified, is the opinion of Attorney-General James M. Swift, submitted to the house yesterday afternoon. After quoting the bill in question, Mr. Swift says: "For the purpose of this inquiry, I assume the question to be whether or not it will be lawful for an employer, affected by said bill, if he so desire, to work longer hours than those prescribed in the bill. In its final analysis the question resolves itself into the inquiry as to whether or not a street railway company which would be affected by the passage of this bill may permit labor to be performed not within the time prescribed in said bill. "It is a familiar rule of interpretation of statutes that when certain exceptions are named in an act, excluding from this operation the exceptions as declared, other exceptions are thereby excluded. The natural conclusion under this rule would therefore be that when the bill, in the last sentence of section 1, makes certain exceptions to its prohibitions, in the following language: "On legal holidays and on Sundays and in case of accident or unavoidable delay, extra labor may be performed for extra compensation." The exceptions named are the only occasions when the employee may perform labor outside of the time prescribed in said section. Consideration of previous legislation covering the same subject confirms this conclusion. Section 3 of chapter 533 of the acts of 1912 provides as follows with reference to this particular contingency: "On legal holidays and on Sundays and in case of unavoidable delay or other emergency, or at any time at the request of the employee, extra labor may be performed for extra compensation."

It is to be noted that the present bill omits the words, "or other emergency, or at any time at the request of the employee thereby showing the intention to eliminate the occasions so omitted and to more definitely limit the exceptions to those contained in the bill under consideration, which it may be observed also include the word 'accident,' which was not in the 1912 act. The conclusion, therefore, seems to be irresistible that this bill should be so construed as to limit the labor of employees covered by it so that it shall not exceed nine hours, as arranged that it shall be performed within 11 consecutive hours, except on legal holidays and in case of accident or unavoidable delay. I assume that the provision that on these occasions extra labor may be performed should be construed to authorize the employer to require the extra labor so permitted. Upon consideration of section 1 alone, I am forced to the conclusion that upon any other occasion it will not be lawful for the employer to permit other work even if the employee so desires it. "The provisions of section 2, that a company which violates any provision of this act shall forfeit for each offence, etc., also confirms this conclusion. The penalty provided is not against the requirement by the employer of more than nine hours' work for a day's labor, but it is against a violation of any provision of this act. The provisions declared in said section 1, which might be violated by the employer are—that a day's work shall not exceed nine hours; that they shall be so arranged that the labor may be performed within 11 consecutive hours; and that the employer shall not require more than the nine hours' work to be established. It would seem that under the broad provisions of this penalty clause, except as permitted by the exceptions hereinbefore referred to an employer exceeding nine hours of labor or permitting such labor to be performed outside of the 11 consecutive hours provided by the bill, even at the request of an employee, would be subject to the penalty so prescribed. The employer, therefore, will be prevented, in my opinion, from allowing more than the nine hours' work except upon the occasions already noted in said house bill No. 2518 becomes a law in its present form. If it is desired to leave the substitution so that the employee may, if he so desires, perform labor outside of the times prescribed by said act, I respectfully suggest that the bill should be amended to make this clear.

"Respectfully submitted,
James M. Swift,
Attorney-General."

When the bill was reached for action in the house, Representative Washburn of Worcester moved an amendment striking out the provision for extra labor with extra compensation on Sundays and in case of accident or unavoidable delay and substituting a clause that nothing in the act shall prevent an employee from working as many hours as he desires, thus making the bill permissive. This would do away with the question of unconstitutionality.

Child Labor Bill
The house yesterday substituted for the child labor bill of the committee on social welfare, a new perfected bill offered by Armstrong of Somerville, but Doyle of New Bedford was unable to strike out the provision that no child under 16 shall be employed for more than eight hours in a textile factory. He said that it would work a hardship on mills now working adults for nine hours a day, if they could not work a child more than eight hours.

In the Senate
Senator Morgan of Boston pressed his amendment to the bill, fixing the pay of assistant registers of probate for Suffolk, by making the same two-thirds of the salary for the register or probate as in accordance with the graduated scale of the act of 1904 for other counties. The committee on ways and means cut down the salary to $3000 for assistant registers of Suffolk and Middlesex.

Fisher Opposed
Senator Fisher of Westford opposed the Morgan amendment. He said the county salary act of 1904 made the salary of the register of probate for Suffolk $5000, and the assistant, $2500. If the committee had erred at all, it was that it was too generous in making the new salary $3000.

The amendment of the ways and means committee, making the salary $3000, was adopted by a vote of 21 to 14. The Morgan amendment was rejected, and the bill as amended was ordered to a third reading.

Salisbury Beach Bill
Senator Wells of Haverhill offered an amendment to the Salisbury beach reservation bill, which he said is satisfactory to the committee on senate ways and means. The amendment "the later committee cut down the appropriation from $10,000 to $5000. Mr. Wells' amendment adds the further sum of $2500 for the current fiscal year, which shall be null and void if the pending proceedings before the supreme judicial court shall result in that court ruling that the act creating the Salisbury beach reservation act of last year is unconstitutional. The senate adopted both amendments and then ordered the bill to a third reading.

JACK GERRAGHTY A HERO

Burns Hands Badly But Smothers Fire

BOSTON, June 2.—Jack Gerraghty is a fire hero.

Out in Brookline last night the young man who first leaped into a burning building to save a woman and her child, was the hero of a fire. He was the first to enter the burning building, and he was the last to leave. He was the first to see the fire, and he was the last to see the fire. He was the first to see the fire, and he was the last to see the fire. He was the first to see the fire, and he was the last to see the fire.

He was the first to see the fire, and he was the last to see the fire. He was the first to see the fire, and he was the last to see the fire. He was the first to see the fire, and he was the last to see the fire. He was the first to see the fire, and he was the last to see the fire.

CHANCE ACQUAINTANCES
Another of the "practical" moves which have resulted from the Chicago vice investigation is the systematic warnings issued by the Illinois vigilance committee which points out to girls the danger of chance acquaintances. As an example of the practical nature of these warnings, news comes to hand that eight of the large railroads entering Chicago have posted such notices along their lines, advising girls who are traveling alone to Chicago to write to one of several organizations that they may be met at the train and saved from designing men and women.

The records of police courts and divorce courts give many concrete examples of the great danger of becoming friendly with chance acquaintances. In this case the standards of good manners are at the service of good morals. It is not considered proper to speak to people without having secured an introduction, and in most cases, it would be a wise rule to follow. At the same time there are cases where it is well to make exceptions, for to adhere too closely to convention would be to miss some of the finest friendships in the world. All who have taken ocean voyages attest to the fine free spirit that actuates the conduct of people on ocean liners, and all people when traveling have met individuals whose nature appealed to them, with the result that the world has been brightened by chance acquaintances.

But admitting this, it is very apparent that girls who are too free in making friends when traveling or at beaches or summer parks play with danger. They may meet with some most desirable acquaintances, but there are so many wolves in sheep's clothing that they are in great danger of regretting their rashness. It is a wise Eastern saying that "No one but God knows what is in the heart," and no one can be sure what guile is hidden under a smiling and fair exterior.

THE TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT
The local board of health is to be congratulated for securing the splendid tuberculosis exhibit which is to be on exhibition in the basement of the public library in a week or so. As this exhibit is the joint production of the state board of health, the Boston board of health, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which supplied the statistics, supplemented by a thousand photographs illustrating phases of the disease and methods for its prevention and cure, it ought to be especially interesting and instructive; and no means should be neglected which would result in public appreciation of its value.

Until a definite cure for tuberculosis is discovered, such displays as will be made locally next week have an extraordinary educational value, illustrating as they do the latest discoveries of the scientific prevention and cure of tuberculosis. They will be particularly appropriate in cities such as ours where government statistics have shown that deaths from tuberculosis are most numerous among textile operatives. They will teach in a practical manner the great need for fresh air and sunshine, and they will do this in an attractive manner which will achieve good without arousing the animosity which well-meant humanitarian movements too often arouse.

The exhibition of itself will be worthless unless the people are informed of its educational value, and strongly urged to attend. For this purpose, the board of health should supplement its wise action by such a campaign of publicity as would tend to make the exhibit well patronized. As it is to continue for a month, there is ample time in which to arouse interest, and all who can be of service to the board of health should assist them in making the anti-tuberculosis campaign beneficial to the greatest number.

WAKEFIELD'S PUBLIC BATHS
The town of Wakefield, which is not 100 miles away, has just taken an action which we might copy with advantage to ourselves and particularly to our juvenile population. Buildings connected with their public baths became so dilapidated that it was considered advisable by some to abandon them, but the town authorities got together and expressed their willingness to co-operate with the park department in the construction of newer and better accommodations. Because of the depleted condition of the treasury—a condition which has a local suggestion—the town voted to appropriate the immense sum of $59 dollars, and the park department set about the necessary repairs by calling for aid on the boys of the town, and those of the local athletic societies which were interested in the comfort and safety of the children.

What has been done in Wakefield could be done in Lowell. The difference in circumstances is a difference in degree only, and we might duplicate the action of the town authorities on a more ambitious scale. On June 15th, when the boys of Wakefield will be taking advantage of the most enjoyable and sanitary summer sport

Seen and Heard

Mitcha Ellman, the "boy violinist," told on his last visit to New York a story of his early childhood. "When I was very small indeed," he said, "I played at a reception at a Russian prince's, and for an archon of the latter myself I rattled off Beethoven's 'Kreutzer Sonata' finely. This sonata, you know, has in it several long and impressive passages, and one of these tests a motherly old lady leaned forward, patted my shoulder, and said: 'Play something you know, dear.'"

Despite the fact that the operator at central is invariably called the "central girl," it is a fact that she really is a "girl." When she gets your light she says "number?" When you flash for her by moving the receiver back up and down she comes across with an "operator?" In fact, in the book of operating practice which operators have to know by heart there is much more to it than the girl at central is properly known as "central."

A young housewife was showing a new and very inexperienced colored maid around the house, explaining the various duties that would be hers. In the hall, as they came suddenly to the door of the back stairs and the lady said: "Nancy, you will go down this way always, and with all the stairs, the stairs slipped and tumbled, going all the way down, with many lurches and bumps."

This story is about a dowager whose wealth and education were of exceedingly recent acquisition. According to the world she had completed had been socially most successful. Some of her friends were questioning her about the places of interest that she had visited.

"Did you see the Dardanelles?" asked one. "And the Himalayas?" inquired another. "Why, certainly," replied the dowager. "I dined with them both in Paris."

It was about 40 years ago that M. Raymond Louis Wolowski, a well-known French politician, who was born in 1802, proposed in the national assembly that the postal card should be recognized as a legitimate form of correspondence in France, and this was the beginning of the postal card as we know it today. But the real discovery of the postal card as a means of correspondence came long before by two young lovers living in distant villages. It was at the time before stamps existed, and the receiver of a letter paid the charges to the postman. The daughter of a poor farmer received from time to time a letter from her lover, a soldier, but she was too poor to pay the postage and after having examined it intently she returned it to the postman with numbers and envelopes as a means of address.

One day a neighbor having pity on the young girl, who was in the habit of putting the letters in the post box, offered to pay it. The girl refused, but the neighbor insisted. Once the girl made no attempt to open it, but stood gazing at the envelope.

Lawrence American. The man who enjoys walking is regarded as singular. When his friends meet him picking along, they pick him up, feeling that they do him a favor in helping him reach his destination.

Major Gaylor of New York has had the habit for many years of walking in the city and back, three miles each way, and may have it still. He says the young men and women who crowd the street cars, many of the fellow-pedestrians, and the crowd of him trudging along as a curiosity. Probably though, had Mr. Gaylor not kept up this exercise, he would today be undergoing as the result of the assailing blizzards.

Optimism
Worcester Post. The optimistic view expressed by Henry Clews, financial adviser of a great revival of business activity following settlement of the tariff and currency questions, and in spite of some other untoward factors in world conditions, is generally shared by thoughtful observers. The proof of this is the fact that the tariff effect of "tariff scare" tactics, and delay for political purposes of the needed legislation is, therefore, nothing less than a crime.

Now here is a triumph of surgery that promises to be a boon to mankind.

Lobbyists
Brooklyn Times. The voters' only hope for the abandonment of certain of the improper and damaging practices lies in their own power. They can elect men they know are honest, capable and dependable. It is distinctly a voters' problem. Lobbyists have been inclined to treat lobbyists as houseflies, attempting to swat or shoot them away, but they come back, intent upon their work, and the scraps of legislatures. The lobby remedy, like the fly remedy, is prevention—don't give the creatures anything to breed on.

4 SENATORS AN HOUR
Told Stories in Lobby Investigation
WASHINGTON, June 3.—The senate struck out boldly yesterday on the trail of the "insidious" lobby which President Wilson declared is operating to modify the tariff bill. At the rate of four senators an hour the colleagues of the five men on the investigating subcommittee stepped to the witness chair, took the oath and then told their stories of senatorial wealth or poverty, or moderate circumstances; of business and professional connections and of their interest or lack of it in the tariff measure.

Suspicion that the trail might prove a winding one with many a strange turning brought out a goodly number of the senators, and it is to these tales from senatorial life. As senator after senator denied knowledge of the existence of an organized lobby, declared that improper influences had not been exerted upon him and that money to influence legislation had never appeared upon the congressional horizon at the present session, the crowd lost its appetite and slowly thinned out. The trail of the lobby was hard to find and spectators who looked for sensations went away empty handed.

Senators who had served in congress for many years repeatedly testified during the all day session that they believed there was less personal appeal to members of the two houses now than at any tariff revision of re-envoy. The neighbor was astonished. When questioned the girl replied: "There is nothing written inside the letter. We are not rich enough, my fiance and I, to pay the postage of our letters, and before he came to the army we arranged a code language between us, the signs that you see traced on the envelope. There was discovered the postcard." New York Sun.

FOR I HAVE YOU
Before you came, my heart knew no sadness; Until you taught me love, my world was drear; But now into my life you've woven gladness, And hence is mine, whenever you are near. I did not know the birds could sing so sweetly, I did not know the flowers could bloom so fair; But since you've come to rule my heart completely, The music of your love is everywhere.

Without your smile, my world would lose its brightness; Without your love, the skies would seem so gray; Without your heart to give my own a home, I could not find my way. The night would never turn into the day, When hard the fight and I am worn and weary; I crave your lips as roses crave the dew; Though once the days were long and life was dreary, I know that heaven is—for I have you! —Jerome P. Fleishman.

Railroad Fighting
Foster's Democrat. Conditions in fighting the railroads have come to such a pass that the railroad men are paying more for what they get, the railroads should get more for the service they are rendering, and the law is diminishing net returns long enough and there will be more receiverships—but some theorists claim that corporations are not to be broken up, but that they should be taken apart and their parts put into other hands.

4 SENATORS AN HOUR
Told Stories in Lobby Investigation
WASHINGTON, June 3.—The senate struck out boldly yesterday on the trail of the "insidious" lobby which President Wilson declared is operating to modify the tariff bill. At the rate of four senators an hour the colleagues of the five men on the investigating subcommittee stepped to the witness chair, took the oath and then told their stories of senatorial wealth or poverty, or moderate circumstances; of business and professional connections and of their interest or lack of it in the tariff measure.

Suspicion that the trail might prove a winding one with many a strange turning brought out a goodly number of the senators, and it is to these tales from senatorial life. As senator after senator denied knowledge of the existence of an organized lobby, declared that improper influences had not been exerted upon him and that money to influence legislation had never appeared upon the congressional horizon at the present session, the crowd lost its appetite and slowly thinned out. The trail of the lobby was hard to find and spectators who looked for sensations went away empty handed.

the end is the gainer from all ably acquired and well spent wealth. A man who has the heart to high things and great ambitions works as only the great can work and then dies. Invariably what ever was worth while in the thing he wrote, or built, or brought together depends sooner or later to the public, the heir apparent of all good things. The things that last whether they be books, parks, palaces, or pictures, are sooner or later bought by some man with a sense of fitness, who dedicates them in one way or another to the public. And what the public once really gets, is never given up.

Aged, Wrinkled Faces Easily Rejuvenated
(From The Beauty Seeker)
An aged face is often only a mask to a comparatively youthful person. Beneath is a countenance young and fair to look upon. It's a simple matter to remove the mask. Ordinary mercurial soap with warm water, gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin; in a week or two the user has the loveliest pinky white complexion imaginable. At the same time the treatment is sufficient to complete the transformation. It is put on at night like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. This remarkable treatment is invariably effective, no matter how muddy, yellow, or discolored the complexion. Freckles, blotches, liver spots, pimples, blackheads and other unsightly blemishes, naturally vanish with the discarded skin. To remove wrinkles here is a recipe that cannot be too highly recommended: Dissolve 1/2 pint witch hazel, 1 oz. of powdered salicylic acid, 1 oz. of glycerine in 1/2 pint witch hazel. Use as a face lotion. It acts instantaneously and is wonderfully effective.

OLD DELUGE WATER GUN

Tested This Morning by
Chief Saunders

IT CAST THREE STREAMS OVER 100
FEET HIGH

Chief Saunders, Well Pleased With the Test and Will Use the Gun in Big
Fire

Chief Edward F. Saunders and members of the local fire department tested a Deluge set gun this morning that has been owned by the fire department for the past thirty years and that has only been used once during that time, the one occasion being the time of the fire in the Masonic temple on Sunday, April 6, 1880.

The tryout was made at the canal on Cheever street near the Cabot street bridge, and Chief Saunders expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the result. The water was pumped from the canal by engine which has been owned by the department since the year 1888, and has recently been thoroughly overhauled by the members of the Central station.

It had been rumored throughout the city that the test was going to be made and a large number of citizens were on hand to witness the exhibition. The gun is about four feet long and has three streams attached to it, but it can be used with one or two streams if desired. To operate the nozzle properly it is necessary to have three men hold it and the force is so strong that the position of the nozzle cannot be changed. The men were stationed on the Cheever street side of the canal and threw the stream toward the buildings on the other side, the water reaching a height of over a hundred feet. The same hose was used as is used on an ordinary nozzle. The test lasted but a few minutes and Chief Saunders stated afterwards that the gun would be in use more in the future if the fire were serious enough, as with the three streams more space can be covered at one time.

Cow by Accident

Mr. Dwight M. Pratt, formerly of Lowell and of the firm of Whitman & Pratt, Rendering Co., this town, suffered quite a loss on his recently purchased farm in South Chelmsford.

The horse on which his herd of cattle stand, broke through and three expensive cows fell into the cellar, severely injuring two and causing the death of the other. All the cows were beautiful specimens, and at the present very high cost of cattle the accident was a serious loss to Mr. Pratt. The local veterinarian was called and the other two cows were saved.

TOURING THE WORLD IN A CHAIR

W. W. Graff Arrived Here
Yesterday—To Remain
a Week

Touring the world in an invalid chair is the task undertaken by William W. Graff of Toledo, Ohio, who has been a cripple 25 years, suffering from chronic rheumatism, which set in when he was 10 years of age. The traveler arrived in this city yesterday, coming from Worcester, and this morning he called at The Sun office, radiating good cheer with his famous smile that has won the admiration of the people in every city he has visited. Mr. Graff started on his trip five years ago, the object being to raise funds with which to defray expenses of a trip to Baden-Baden, Germany, where he believes that cure for his sufferings may be found. He came to this city some two years ago and was received with open arms by the residents of the Spindle City.

The visitor called at the license commissioner's office yesterday afternoon and secured a permit to sell pencils and postal cards in Lowell, for he is not a beggar, nor does he ask any one for anything for which he is not willing to give an adequate return. The permit was given him gratis and this led him to remark that in Hartford, Conn., he was assessed the sum of five dollars for the privilege of selling pencils in the street. However, the pencils and postal cards in Lowell, in money, was refused him while in Worcester, when he received a letter containing a five spot from a woman resident of Hartford, who said she was ashamed of the actions of the license commissioners. Mr. Graff while on the road covered a distance of 27,000 miles. He will remain in Lowell a week and then travel northward.

A Girard, a pretty young woman of 24 years, said she had married her husband not knowing that he was a thief, but she soon became aware of it and then was forced to make the best of it with the result that she fell in with his mode of living.

The young woman who said her relatives live at 225 North Second street, New Bedford, was arrested last yesterday afternoon in an uptown department store with her husband, Henry J. Girard, aged 22, on the charge of shoplifting. They were watched by inspectors Burr and O'Neil, who became suspicious of the pair, and followed them through a number of stores and say they saw them steal articles.

Explosion Wrecked House Occupied by Woman Who Refused to Strike—Editor Placed on Trial

PATERSON, N. J., June 3.—The Paterson silk strike passed its 13th week yesterday unmarked by any general break in the ranks of idle operatives. A few stragglers returned. There was no attempt to interfere with them.

Abraham Bellman, a weaver, committed suicide yesterday when the broad silk weavers did not return to their looms. His wife, early yesterday, went to New York to visit their five children who were recently taken there by members of the Industrial Workers of the World, and are being cared for by charitable persons. She returned to find Bellman dead in the bath room. He had inhaled illuminating gas.

Inflammatory Statements

Alexander Scott, editor of the Passaic Weekly Issue, was placed on trial yesterday under an indictment charging him with publishing inflammatory statements and cartoons regarding the manner in which the Paterson police have dealt with the strike situation. The jury was completed and the trial adjourned until today.

An explosion last night wrecked part of the house where lives Mrs. Marie Pezzano, a broad silk weaver, who refused to strike because she needed wages to care for an invalid husband. Strikers and sympathizers had threatened her with "trouble" she told the police. The explosive was in a barrel in the cellar. The building caught fire but quick work by the firemen prevented the flames from spreading. No one was hurt by the explosion.

Concord Hospital

CONCORD, N. H., June 3.—John Babbitt of Portsmouth, under indictment there on charges of grand larceny and attempt to kill and who was at the New Hampshire State hospital in this city for observation, made his escape from that institution last night and is still at large.

Babbitt confessed to killing a woman near Syracuse, N. Y., some years ago, and while awaiting investigation in Portsmouth made an attempt to kill his cellmate in the Rockingham county jail and also to commit suicide.

A companion named McDonald, from West Stewarton, was with him when he fled the asylum last night, but later McDonald was recaptured.

PROBE OF THE "LOBBY"

One-Fifth of Senators
Disposed of

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The second day of the senate probe of the "lobby" began with approximately one-fifth of the total number of senators disposed of. At such a rate of progress it would take four days more to finish the investigation. The senate has allowed ten working mornings, afternoons and night sessions and under the consent of the senate itself is absent themselves from regular sessions in order to hear witnesses, members of the sub committee taking the testimony were confident today they would finish this week.

Senator Brady of Idaho, one of the new members had not finished his testimony when the legislators stopped last night and he was ready to proceed today. The first day's inquiry had not definitely located "the lobby" nor developed any proof of the "lobbyists" using improper methods in the opinion of senators to influence their action on the tariff.

Senator McLean, however, was called as the first witness. He gave a list of various callers who discussed the tariff with him but he considered none of them lobbyists.

RESULT OF INVESTIGATION OF
N. Y. POLICE DEPARTMENT

Report Characterizes Commissioner as Incompetent and Unfit—Inquiry Follows Murder of Gambler Rosenthal

NEW YORK, June 3.—The removal of Rhinelander Waldo as police commissioner, an appointment post he has held for two years under Mayor Gaynor, is recommended in a majority report adopted yesterday by the aldermanic committee that investigated the testimony of the police department after Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was slain last July by gunmen hired by former Police Chief Charles Becker. The report was intended to go to Gov. Sulzer but at the last minute an amendment was passed directing the recommendation for removal to the mayor. The board of aldermen, as a whole, must pass on the report before it can reach Mr. Gaynor. The committee yesterday stood four to three in favor of the report. Two members did not vote.

Incompetent and Unfit

Commissioner Waldo is characterized in the report as "incompetent and unfit," and incapable of administering his department. "Many of the existing evils of the department can be directly traced to his inefficiency and administrative blunders," the report charges. It sets forth in detail the committee's reasons for recommending the removal of the commissioner. Alleged failure to prevent a widespread system of blackmail and extortion by certain of his subordinates is one of the dozen reasons mentioned.

The report says Commissioner Waldo gave no assistance to the investigation committee but "sought to obstruct and hinder the investigation."

"After a conference with Mayor Gaynor," the report says, "the commissioner, his secretary, a deputy commissioner and one of the recently convicted inspectors, all refused to testify before the committee, unless permitted to do so without waiving immunity from prosecution."

After a conference with Mayor Gaynor, Commissioner Waldo said he considered the action of the committee due to politics. The mayor, he added, had not removed him and he had no intention of resigning. Mayor Gaynor would not discuss the committee's report.

President Navin of the Detroit club is very emphatic in his denial of the alleged trade of Cobb for Hal Chase. He labels the report as "extremely silly." The Detroit president is come talker, too, when he gets down to business as one of the principals in the proposed trade well knows.

This schoolboy is a much classier performer than the majority of men playing his position in the New England league today and can be developed into a wonder.

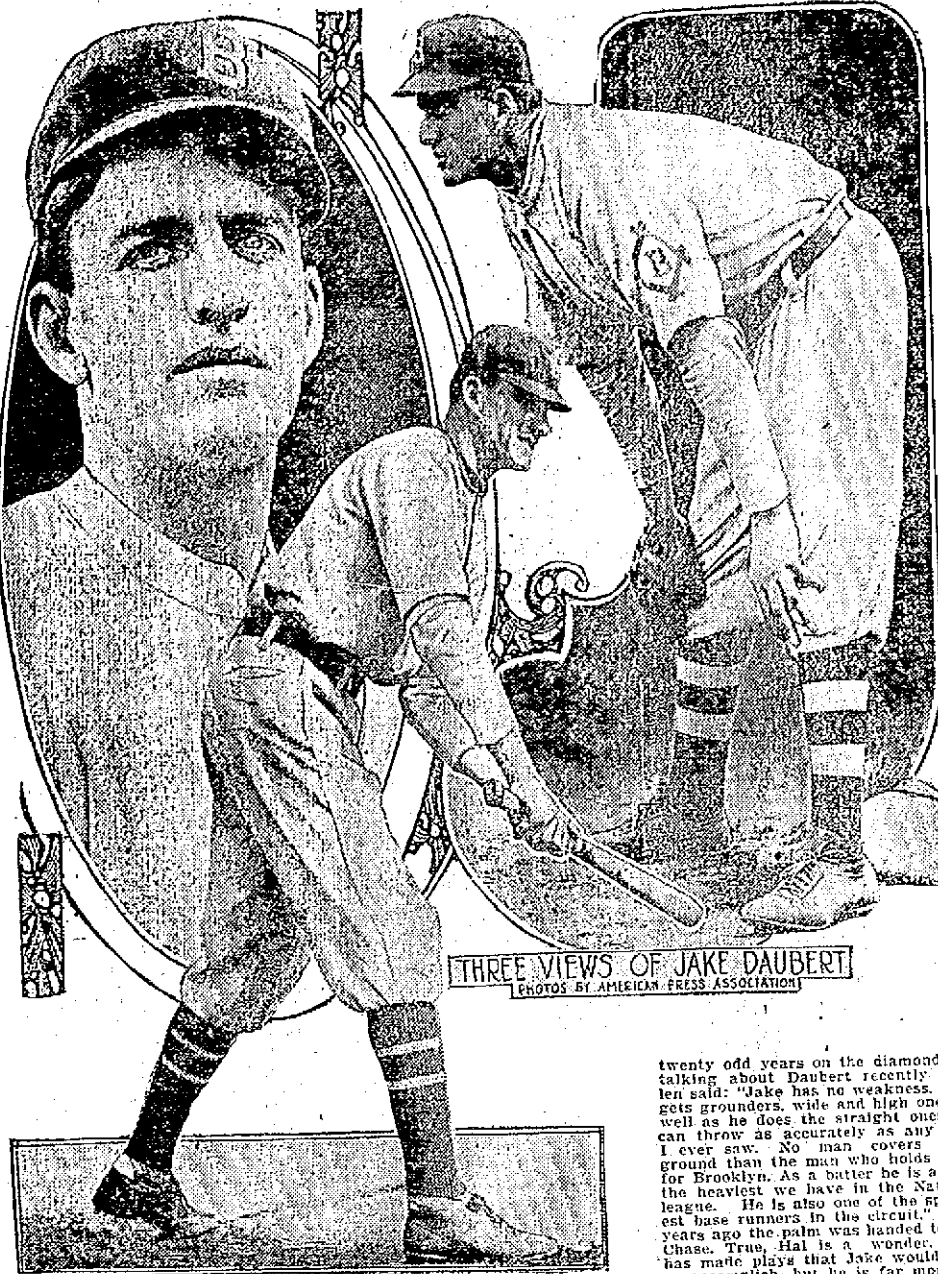

Manager Coughlin of the Burkes baseball team has announced that his team will again furnish part of the program at the day to be held in this city within the month. "Nixey" has been besieged with proffers of games from out of town clubs since the victory of the Burkes over the South Ends.

Although John Paul Jones has vindicated his claim to premier honors in the mile run there are many who would like to see Abe Kiviat of the Irish-American A. After Jones' exhibition last Saturday at the stadium it would not be surprising to see the record lowered several seconds in the event of these two great mile runners meeting.

The Red Sox defeated the loyal Highlanders yesterday in both games of their double header, taking the first 4 to 3 and the second 8 to 5. In both games Boston played faster ball than New York. Although the Highlanders outfit and outbatted Manager Stahl's team in the first contest.

Manager Chance endeavored to break the losing streak of his team by sending his team in to bat first in the last game but the attempt proved fruitless. Boston landed on McConnell hard in the sixth inning and forced him to retire. Five of Boston's eight runs came across in this session.

WHITTED SMILING WAY THROUGH
BIG LEAGUE WITH CARDINALS

George B. Whitted of the Cardinals will hear watching. He is a substitute infielder who did so well at third that he was shifted over to short, where he again made good. He is regarded as the fastest runner on the team, though he can't get down to first as quick as some others, because he has not yet learned the knack of a quick start. As a batter Whitted shines, because he is better in a pinch than at any other time. Having control of his nerves, he performs better when more depends on his performance. He swings hard, and when he hits the ball it makes a hurried trip away from the home plate. Whitted comes from Durham, N. C. Last summer he played with the champion, Jacksonville team of the South Atlantic league.

Asst. Sec. Roosevelt Returns

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who returned today from Sackett's harbor, where he went to attend the dedication of a monument to commemorate an American victory in the war of 1812, found in that place the only woman commandant in the United States. She is "Commandant" Mrs. Metcalf and is in charge of the station there. It has long been in disuse but Mrs. Metcalf resides there and looks after the building, receiving a stipend of $1 a day.

CAWLEY PLAYED GREAT GAME

Though Lowell High Was Defeated by Score of Six to Four

EDDIE CAWLEY,
Shortstop Lowell High

Lowell high lost a close and hard fought game yesterday when her baseball team met the representatives of the Boston English high school at Spaulding park. The score, 6 to 4, shows the relative playing strength of each team.

Eddie Cawley, the crack shortstop of the local school team, was directly responsible for three of Lowell's runs, his great all around work being the feature of the contest. His fielding, batting and base running were all of big league calibre.

Wilson was in the box for the locals and pitched a steady game. He used his head to good advantage throughout the contest, seldom grooving the ball. With fair support by his team Wilson would have pulled the game out.

Carter played a nice game at first base. He and Cawley proved the whole life of the infield and several hard hit balls that were labeled safeties were converted into putouts by the pair.

Lowell seemed to be lacking in team work. Poor base running cut off chances to win the game on two different occasions. Individually, however, the schoolboys played the best game that they have exhibited this season. The score:

JOE THOMAS

Bill McKinnon and Joe Thomas of Lowell have been matched to box the feature bout at Manchester, N. H. June 13. To make the meeting still more interesting Bob Lefavour and George Perry, middleweights, will meet in the semifinal.

Dows & Co."

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The North Chelmsford Cubs' second team won from the Oakes on Memorial day, 9 to 5, and having thus been favored with a streak of luck think they are the equals of any of the other amateur teams of Lowell. They limit the ages to 13 or 14 years. We could get up a team of 5 year olds that could put it over them. Answer through this paper.

The Lonsome Stars avow that they were glad to get through with a game last Saturday because the umpire was manifestly with the other team. The Stars are lonesome because they cannot find any team with courage enough to accept the challenge. Nine and 10 year old outfits of Lowell get busy and keep the lonesome ones company.

Well, here you are Lonesomes! The next paper that was selected from the pile on the desk of the amateur baseball editor was one from the Speed Boys, who challenge the Lonsome Stars to a game next Saturday afternoon for a prize of a 25-cent ball. Here is a good chance for those stars to come out and shine against the Speed Boys or hide their light for good.

Some team or other who claims that it is representing the Immaculate Conception Altar Boys ask any 12 or 14 year old team to accept its challenge through The Sun or by writing to R. O'Shea, 213 Concord street.

The Athletics challenge the Riverside Grays and say that although the latter have new suits, etc. it does not indicate any ability as ball players. They say that the Riverside are "tongue players" who like to see their names in the paper and spread around the streets in new baseball togs for people to look at, but not to be soiled with the dust of the diamond. We say that "tongue hard words" and hereby call upon the Riverside to defend their honor as we believe they can against the windy Athletics. Answer through this paper.

The Broadway Stars send a challenge to any 14 year old team in the city that can give them a close game. They are tired of winning their games by large scores and want a good close contest. If there is no team in the city that can accommodate them, then the other amateur teams better close up, it's after 11 o'clock.

Crystals challenge any team in the city at the age of 17 or 18 years. The manager requests his team to report Thursday night at half past seven at Liberty square.

The Orioles are singing again and want to play any team at 12-14 years. We have heard from them before and they arranged half a dozen games and never showed up when the time came. That's a fine way to avoid being beaten. They have lost only one game this season and that was the only one they played.

The Diamond Springs of Lawrence want to meet some of the strongest teams in Lowell. Here is a chance for

The Red Eagles of Centralville have reorganized for the season under the management of Leo Deignan. We would like to play any 12-year-old team in or around the city. Our lineup is as follows: F. Small, c. L. Deignan, p. F. Teague, 1b. E. Davis, 2b. McGowan, 3b. A. Creamer, 3b. E. Farley, 1b. N. Hart, cf. J. Creamer, cf. Subs are: T. Creamer, 1b. Leo Riley, mascot, John Davis and Edward Small. Send all challenges to Leo Deignan, 37 Elmwood avenue.

The Utopias assert that the Wilder A. C. is afraid of them and also the Salem A. C. because they have challenged both repeatedly with no response from either. We agree with the Utopias for we know that the Wilders have been filling the air with their howls for games and then backing down.

The All Stars of Pawtucketville defeated the Ledgers, May 20 in an exciting game, by the score of 12 to 10. The All Stars will play any 17-year-old team in the city, the White Sox of Graniteville, Royals of the Lowell Americans preferred. Send all challenges to John Kelley, 80 Fourth avenue.

The St. Mary team defeated the Clippers Friday by a score of 12 to 11. With one on base and the score 12 to 11. Former Manager O'Brien put the ball over the stone wall for a home run only to be called out by the umpire for not touching second base. Hart was on the firing line for the Clippers and Brady was on the receiving end. The Clippers are looking for games. Send all challenges through this paper.

The Lincoln defeated the Hostfords in two games Friday by the scores of 20 to 13 and 9 to 7. Saturday they played the Young Washingtons and defeated them by the score of 24 to 9. Netto pitched all three games.

GREAT DEMAND FOR BEEF

Causes High Prices Says Washington Bulletin

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The demand for beef far exceeds the supply and high prices are the result, according to a bulletin today from the department of agriculture. The shortage in the supply of meat bearing animals too is steadily becoming greater and the country is warned that it is facing a period of short production of meat.

In the past six years there has been a decline of more than 30 per cent. in the number of beef cattle in the United States, according to the department and already during the first three months of this year there has been an approximate decrease of 13 per cent. in the number of meat animals killed under government supervision when compared with the same three months of 1912. Estimates of the department give the number of beef cattle in the United States on Jan. 1, 1907, as 51,560,000 and at the beginning of the present year as 38,030,000.

MRS. BRUNELLE WAS POISONED

Dead Cat Found in Covered Well at Willow Dale—State Police on Case—Odor of Water Caused Illness

Mrs. Pierre Noe Brunelle, wife of the well known Belvidere druggist, died last night at her home, 57 Pond street, after being ill for three weeks, and her death will probably be the cause of an investigation by the state police, for it is believed she has been poisoned by inhaling the vapor of polluted water at her summer home on Bowers avenue, Willow Dale.

Mr. Brunelle when seen by the writer this morning related the following story relative to his wife's death:

"Three weeks ago I left in the morning and told my wife I would go to the camp in Willow Dale and get things in shape, for we expected to move there a few days later. My wife, who was then enjoying the best of health, told me if the weather were favorable she would join me in the afternoon.

"In the latter part of the afternoon she came to the camp in the automobile with our son, Lucien R., and at that time was in perfect health, the automobile ride across the country having greatly refreshed her. Shortly afterward she was thirsty and went to take a drink of water, but when she inhaled the odor of the water, on putting it to her lips, was overcome by the foul smell. She became very weak and vomited. She was immediately carried to a bed and a short time later when she had recovered sufficiently we hurried her home in the automobile.

"Dr. James P. McAdams and Dr. Pierre Brunelle were summoned in haste to the home, 57 Pond street, where my wife was very sick. But despite medical attendance she passed away last night.

"Shortly after the visit to the camp I notified the Tyngsboro police and, with the assistance of Lieut. Martin Maher of this city, an investigation was made and the body of a dead cat was found in the well, and to all appearances the cat had been in the well since last winter. The opening of the well was covered with a large wooden box and surrounded with gravel in such a way that a mouse could not have gained admittance unless some one lifted the box."

It is said that the police learned that the cat had been seen in Willow Dale during the winter months. The state police may be called on the case, for many are of the opinion that the cat was thrown into the well for the purpose of polluting the water. The case is a mysterious one, and Mr. Brunelle says he will spare no time or money to clear up the mystery.

Deceased was well known in Lowell, where she lived for many years. She was aged 50 years, and her maiden name was Virginia Lemieux. She is survived by a husband, four children, Lucien R., Blanche E., Marie Etta L. and Paul H., her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elie Lemieux of Hilliard, North Dakota, a sister, Mrs. Joseph Plante of Hilliard, North Dakota, and a brother, Arthur Lemieux in Florida.

Mr. Brunelle is completely overcome with grief and he believes that his wife has been the victim of wicked malice. The case is one of the most mysterious that has engaged the attention of the police for many years.

DIST. ATTY. CALLS THE ALDERMEN

To Attend Investigation of Municipal Affairs
Tomorrow

Grand Jury Expected to Take Up the Brown
Case

District Attorney John J. Higgins called at the city hall this morning for the purpose of inviting the members of the city council to be present at the court house in Gorham street tomorrow forenoon at 10 o'clock. While the council members who talked with the district attorney allowed that their presence at the court house was requested in connection with the grand jury investigation of the charges preferred by Mayor O'Donnell against Commissioner George H. Brown, the district attorney did not say so. He simply wanted them for the purpose of investigation.

Mr. Higgins called at the mayor's office but the mayor had gone to Rogers hall school. He said he did not want to summon members of the municipal council to give evidence before the grand jury but he requested their presence in connection with an investigation having to do with municipal affairs. The district attorney said he would like to have anybody familiar with city affairs to present themselves at the court house.

DANGER TO PUPILS FROM CLOSETS

Outbreak of Diphtheria at Billings Street School Probably Due to that Cause

A very strong protest has gone up from Centralville against the system of sanitation at the Billings street school. Several cases of diphtheria have been reported at the office of the board of health from Centralville within the last two or three weeks and a number of cases were discovered in this school.

The first action of the board of health was to investigate the milk supply in that vicinity to discover if the milk had anything to do with it. From its investigation the board did not think it should hold any one dealer responsible. Only three of the cases were found to be on one milk dealer's route. A culture was taken from the throat of the school janitor and it was found that he had diphtheria. The culture proved positive.

Yesterday Commissioner Cummings talked with a man from Centralville and the man complained about the sanitary conditions at the Billings street school. The man had made a personal investigation and he reported to Mr. Cummings that the school was not fit for habitation. He said that the school was as clean as it was possible for janitors to keep it, but that the odor from the dry closet permeated every room in the school and endangered the lives of the children. The man gave as his opinion that the diphtheria in the school was due to very bad system of sanitation, to a dry closet system, rather than from milk or other causes. The man has said that unless something is done right away he will bring the matter to the attention of the state board of health.

Commissioner Cummings stated today that he had received a communication from the school board some time ago relative to conditions existing at the Billings street school and he said no action has been taken because there is no appropriation with which to do the work.

"The Billings street school is not the only school where sanitary conditions have been complained of," said Mr. Cummings, "and I presume if the board of health should condemn the dry closet system, and that would include the high school, we would have to take them out and install flush closets. The schools having dry closets that are burned out with kerosene two or three times a week, are the high school, new Bartlett, Billings street, Laura Lee, new Moody, Pine street, the Oaklands school, Lexington avenue, Abraham Lincoln school and the Cross street and Charles street schools. I do not think they have all the same system, but I understand that the sanitary conditions are not satisfactory in any of these schools. Personally, I think that all of the schools should have flush closets."

To the people in Centralville who think that sanitary conditions of the school may be responsible for the diphtheria cases appearing there, Commissioner Cummings stated that he would be glad to give them a hearing any night this week except Friday night, and that he would be willing to meet them in Centralville if they did not want to come to city hall.

WOOD OFFERS NO DEFENSE

Court Refuses to Dismiss the Case
Against Mill President—Prosecution Rested Today

BOSTON, June 3.—Late this afternoon the court refused to dismiss the case against Wood.

Prosecution Rested
BOSTON, June 3.—The prosecution rested today in the trial of President Wood of the American Woolen Co. Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, who are charged with conspiring with John J. Breen of Lawrence and the late Ernest W. Pitman of Andover to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence to discredit the striking textile workers in January, 1912.

After a few minutes consultation following the closing of the government's case, Attorney Hurlburt announced that the case for Wood also rested. He said that his client would offer no defense and requested the court to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty on the indictment of Mr. Wood.

The announcement that the government had presented all its evidence was made soon after the beginning of the afternoon session.

The forenoon was devoted to a continuation of the cross examination by Daniel H. Coakley, Atteaux's counsel, of Arthur Piers, a taxicab chauffeur who testified yesterday that on Jan. 19, 1912, the day the dynamite was "planted" he was called to Wood's Boston residence where he took a passenger resembling Atteaux. He drove the man to an appointment with another man at the corner of Franklin and Washington streets, thence to a saloon on Court street, back again to Franklin street and then to the Boston Athletic Association. Breen had previously testified that Atteaux met him twice on the same day at the same corner and at the second meeting gave him $500 as the first instalment in payment for placing the explosive.

The manager of the taxicab company by which Piers is employed was called as the last witness for the state and testified regarding what the company's records showed concerning Piers' movements on the day in question. The taking of testimony was suspended while counsel argued on the motion for an instructed verdict. Dist. Atty. Pelletier protested against such a verdict as being unfair to the other defendants, but Judge Crosby overruled this.

Mr. Hurlburt argued that Wood had not shown any actual participation in the conspiracy.

"The commonwealth must show evidence," said Mr. Hurlburt, "that Mr. Wood took an active part in this alleged conspiracy. The testimony is to the effect that at 11.30 a. m. Jan. 19, 1912, the alleged unlawful agreement began when Breen and Atteaux met and subsequently Mr. Pitman came in. It is evident that the tendency of this conspiracy was of about 24 hours' duration. Wood was not present and not a word of testimony has been given that could in any way connect him with any unlawful agreement."

"For this case against Mr. Wood to go to the jury it is necessary that the commonwealth make out a prima facie case and it is essential for them to offer evidence that Wood's connection with the conspiracy was established by something more than probability, by something more than the doctrine of chance."

The attorney reviewed the conditions existing at Lawrence in January, 1912. Wood as president of the American Woolen Co. had a legitimate interest in the strike, he said. There had been no evidence that he ever knew, saw or talked with Breen.

According to Mr. Hurlburt no evidence had been introduced connecting Wood with either Atteaux or Pitman so far as any unlawful agreement was concerned.

WALTER SCOTT WEEKS

Popular Leading Man Appearing in "A Young Wife" at Merrimack Square Theatre, This Week

Merrimack Square

This is the last but by far not the least of the stock performances at the Merrimack Square theatre and in presenting "The Young Wife" the management displayed excellent taste and a knowledge of what will please the people. The performances yesterday afternoon and evening attracted large audiences and everyone went away pleased.

"The Young Wife" is a melodrama of four acts and the thrilling situations are well arranged so as to be most effective and not overdone while there is some good wholesome humor to create a pleasing equilibrium. During her early life, the young wife, Ethel Douglas, (Miss Grace Young) was kidnapped by a band of thieves and later came away from them. In marrying the wealthy Clarence Douglas she did not tell him of her past. Later suspicion points strongly to her when a murder has been committed and thinking that her husband was the criminal and wishing to shield him she accepted the blame. This leads to investigation and just as she is about to be arrested and prosecuted, the whole affair is straightened out. The piece is one which holds the interest of the audience from the rise to the final fall of the curtain.

Miss Young is seen in the part of "Ethel Douglas," the young wife, and her acting was well up to the usual high standard which has characterized the work of this popular actress of Lowell. She received numerous applause. Mr. Walter Scott Weeks, the leading man of the company interpreting the part of "Clarence Douglas" in a very commendable manner and all of the other members were good. The photo plays pleased.

As has already been said, this is the last week of stock and next week the program of vaudeville and photo-plays will be resumed.

ON EVE OF CONTEST

Great Enthusiasm in the Race For Library

"Have you been braced yet?" such was the salutation that the writer heard in Merrimack square this morning. And as many others might have inquired in a like manner, the person who had been approached with the mysterious inquiry, asked: "Braced for what?" Then the young man, an energetic member of a society whose officials have already started assembling teams to properly campaign for

Pick Me Up Quick

Opticon Pills Do It

A few days after taking Pepticon Pills you realize you are being "picked up." I. e., toned up and invigorated. This is due to the unusual tonic properties of these Pills, which we believe have never before been equaled.

If you are pale, weak, nervous, run down, with no appetite and ailing generally, a 50c package of Pepticon Pills will change your whole condition. Get a box today and find health, strength and happiness.

the beautiful library to be given to the most popular organization or society in this city, informed him that what he meant when he said braced, was whether or not his support (the friends) had been solicited by any other individual. After the explanation had been made, the friend said: "O, if that is what you want to know, I will tell you that I have not. But," he said, "aren't you a bit hasty? Why that contest doesn't begin until tomorrow." "I know that," answered the young man, "but say, haven't you ever heard that adage about taking time by the forelock? Well, that's me. And say, just watch the list that will be published in The Sun in a few days, and see if the work that I have been doing since that big advertisement appeared in The Sun, last Saturday hasn't borne fruit. I'll be off with a strong will, and you'll find me a strong winner," said the young man as he waved his friend good-bye.

And this is but one instance of the interest that is already rampant in the contest which is to be conducted in this city with The Sun as the official publicity medium; and The Sun is to be a little more than that, for through arrangements made with the owner of the publication, The Sun has received permission to insert each and every day in all editions a coupon, each of which will be good for two votes. Six coupons of consecutive dates will be exchanged at any of the contest stores for a certificate good for 25 extra votes. The next time that you pass Macartney's satisfy that curiosity that has had a hold of you since you saw the recent standing of the large window, and have a look at a library the identical of which would cost several hundred dollars, which is to be awarded in this contest.

By entering the contest now, church societies and fraternal organizations will have a certain advantage, inasmuch as they will receive some benefits through the extensive publicity to be given the contest in its early stages. Officials of societies are invited to enroll now. Do not defer enrolling, for another society which will probably pull from the same quarters that your organization would depend upon to return a winner, might take the pole from you. Do not procrastinate!

B. of R. T. Elect Officers

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Today is election day with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the way was cleared at this morning's session for the naming of candidates.

GEORGE A. NELSON DEAD

Assistant City Engineer
Passed Away Today

George A. Nelson, assistant civil engineer for the city of Lowell, died this morning at the Lowell General hospital. He had been ill for several weeks and had been suffering from nervous breakdown. He spent several weeks in the country within the last few months in an endeavor to recuperate and returned to work at a time when he was not physically equal to the task. He was taken to the hospital about six weeks ago.

Mr. Nelson was considered one of the very best engineers ever to graduate from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and would have been widely known but for the fact that his was a retiring disposition. The big construction companies and the heads of big engineering problems knew of Mr. Nelson's ability as an engineer, and on more than one occasion he refused a salary of $5000 a year, preferring to remain in Lowell. When the Hudson river tube, or tunnel was being constructed William G. Meade, now secretary of the treasury, offered Mr. Nelson $5000 to join the auxiliary engineering corps. Mr. Nelson said at that time he did not think his health was good enough to take chances on work of that nature.

Being an engineer of acknowledged superiority, Mr. Nelson was an accomplished amateur photographer, and a photograph taken by him in Lowell won a silver medal at the International salon in Germany several years ago. The subject of the picture was a Lowell cobbler by the name of McIlroy, and it was considered one of the very best pictures on exhibition where photographers from all countries contested.

Mr. Nelson was born in Lexington, Mass., and came to Lowell in 1883. He became connected with the city engineering department shortly after his arrival here, and besides being a very capable man, he was very genial and very likeable. He made friends readily and kept them because he always proved himself worthy the friendship of his fellow men. He had charge of the bridge work for the street department and supervised all of the general engineering work for the water department. He had photographs of about all of the jobs supervised by him, especially bridge work, for he always maintained that a picture was worth a hundred words. He thought that one could get a better idea of the progress made on a certain job by seeing pictures that were taken from week to week or month to month, than from a detailed account in writing.

City Engineer Kearney received the sad news of Mr. Nelson's death at his office at city hall this forenoon, and was visibly affected by it. Mr. Kearney said that Mr. Nelson was the most conscientious man he had ever met. "He was a hard worker, mentally," said Mr. Kearney, "and was intensely interested in anything that he had anything to do with. He was not hasty in arriving at a conclusion and always tried to see things from the public view-point as well as from his own. The city of Lowell has lost a very valuable servant and I think it will be impossible to replace him."

Mr. Nelson was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, and the Merrimack Valley Engineers and Technologists of which he was a former president. He is survived by a brother and sister.

Continued

Chauffeur Cross-Examined

BOSTON, June 3.—The cross-examination of Arthur Piers, the chauffeur who testified yesterday at the so-called conspiracy trial in the superior court, was resumed today. Piers, a taxi-cab chauffeur, was produced by the government yesterday in an effort to connect President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Co., Frederick Atteaux, a manufacturer, and Daniel A. Collins, a dog fancier, with the alleged plot to "blow" dynamite in Lawrence to discredit the strikers during the Lawrence textile mill strike last January. According to his testimony yesterday, the witness drove Atteaux from the residence of Mr. Wood to the corner of Franklin and Washington streets, this city, to a Court street saloon, back of Franklin street and then to the clubhouse of the Boston Athletic association on the evening of January 13, 1912, the date on which the dynamite was "blown." The witness was under the cross-examination by Daniel A. Coakley, counsel for Atteaux when court adjourned yesterday.

Piers's Testimony Important

The importance of Piers's testimony to the state lies in the fact that J. J. Brown, who has been convicted of distributing the dynamite, has testified that Atteaux paid him for the work and made one payment when they met at the corner of Franklin and Washington streets on the night of Jan. 13, 1912. When Piers resumed the stand, Daniel H. Coakley, counsel for Atteaux, questioned him about a conversation between the witness and Frank Neal, a friend, in reference to Piers's appearance in court the next day. Piers could not recall telling Neal that Police Inspector Lynch, who summoned him to the district attorney's office late Saturday night, said to the witness:

"We're not going to arrest you; we just want you to go down and tell the district attorney about that trip of yours from Wood's house to Franklin street."

Piers said that Lynch made no such statement to him and that if he (the witness) had told such a story to Neal it was untrue. Neither could Piers remember saying to Neal, "They (the district attorney's staff) knew all about it; they said that the man I took to Franklin street met Brown."

"In Right" With Police

Mr. Coakley referred to a conversation between the witness and a fellow chauffeur named Peterson on Sunday night. Piers said he talked with Peterson but was unable to recall what was said. Piers could not remember saying to Peterson regarding his visit to the district attorney's office: "They treated me fine down there; they gave me cigars and used me right. If I ever get 'pinched' again I'm in right."

District Attorney Pelletier then asked the witness to tell how he was able to remember the incidents of his trip on the evening of Jan. 13, 1912. Piers said he thought it was "queer" that a passenger from Wood's house would go into the Court street barroom and "sit looking queer" to him when the passenger went back a second time to meet the same man at the same corner.

Mr. Coakley objected vigorously to the testimony and saved his exceptions when Judge John C. Crosby ruled that the testimony might stand so far as it indicated how the witness could recall the incidents.

When the district attorney offered in evidence the taxi-cab company's records of Piers's movements on Jan. 13, 1912, Henry F. Hubbard, counsel for Wood, objected to their admission as against his client and the court said it would admit them only as against Atteaux. Thereupon Mr. Coakley objected and the court said it would allow the taxi cab testimony to go in but would exclude the testimony of the taxi cab company which had also been offered by the prosecution.

The audience at today's inquiry thinned down to four within the first hour. Senator Dillingham testified he had no financial interest in any business affected by the tariff or other legislation and represented no one who had. He could not remember the names of persons who had talked with him except Mr. Elliot of New York who urged that no duty be put on green furs. He knew of no lobby or the use of money to affect legislation.

Card Exhibited

When the card was exhibited to the jury one of the jurors surprised both court and counsel by discovering that the exhibit bore the date of Jan. 19, 1911, a year before the dynamite was "blown."

The next witness, Albert L. Marden, agent of the taxi-cab company, testified that he could not tell from personal knowledge whether the exhibit was a record for 1911 or 1912. He examined a great number of other cards bearing serial numbers and after following the number on the disputed exhibit and all of them were dated 1912.

Marden testified that Ernest W. Pitman, the Andover contractor, who is alleged to have supplied the dynamite and who committed suicide at the beginning of the grand jury investigation of the alleged conspiracy, was an official of the taxi-cab company.

"Is Mr. William M. Wood a customer of your company?" asked Mr. Pelletier.

"Object," interposed Mr. Hubbard.

"How can this be material?"

"Of course it is material," rejoined the district attorney, "as I wish to show bias on the part of this witness."

The court excluded the question as incompetent.

After a short conference between counsel at the bench, Mr. Pelletier announced that counsel had agreed as to certain facts which would tend to indicate that the disputed taxi-cab card was issued in 1912.

Mr. Coakley's cross-examination of Marden was very brief.

Mr. Pelletier then asked the witness to bring into court taxi-cab record cards for January, 1911, to show that the disputed card was issued in 1912.

The district attorney said he had no other witnesses and at his request recess was taken until 1 p. m. when the afternoon session will begin an hour earlier than usual.

GRADUATION AT ROGERS HALL SCHOOL WITH
ADDRESS BY PROF. MILLER OF CHICAGO

ROGERS HALL SCHOOL.

The graduation exercises of the Rogers Hall school were held this morning at the school buildings on Rogers street and were largely attended by relatives and friends of the graduates. There were sixteen in the class this year and ten states were represented by the graduates.

Previous to the exercises which were held in the gymnasium a reception took place in the drawing-rooms and the graduating class was assisted in receiving by the following ladies: Mrs. A. G. Pollard, Mrs. Franklin Nourse, Miss N. P. H. Robbins, Mrs. John Jacob Rogers and Miss Parsons, the latter principal of the school. The reception was continued from 10.30 until 11 o'clock and the graduation exercises commenced promptly at 11, the appointed hour.

The gymnasium was beautifully decorated with flowers and the seating capacity was well occupied. The exercises were opened by the Rev. Charles T. Billings, who offered prayer. Frank Justus Miller, Ph.D., professor and dean in the University of Chicago, delivered a very instructive address, taking for his theme the question, "Does Education Educate?"

Mr. Miller said in part: "It is the duty of the board of trustees ad-

general opinion throughout the country that education is the solution of all problems. A brief history of education in ancient times will show how education has been progressing and now when we have vocational training we have the feeling that we have spoken the last word. All trainings, however admirable, fail to reach the heart of the situation and we are still far from the end. We need those principles of reverence for all that which is sacred for our parents, for women and children. We should be trained to feel responsible for others and should have that feeling of obligation for the welfare of young people. The person with an education, who has a college education, has put himself in debt and should give back to society in some form or other what he has received."

Mr. Miller closed his talk by referring to that list of questions that have been so often published and which if answered in the affirmative designate that the person is educated. He stated that he believed the one who could answer the ten questions in the affirmative was a truly educated person.

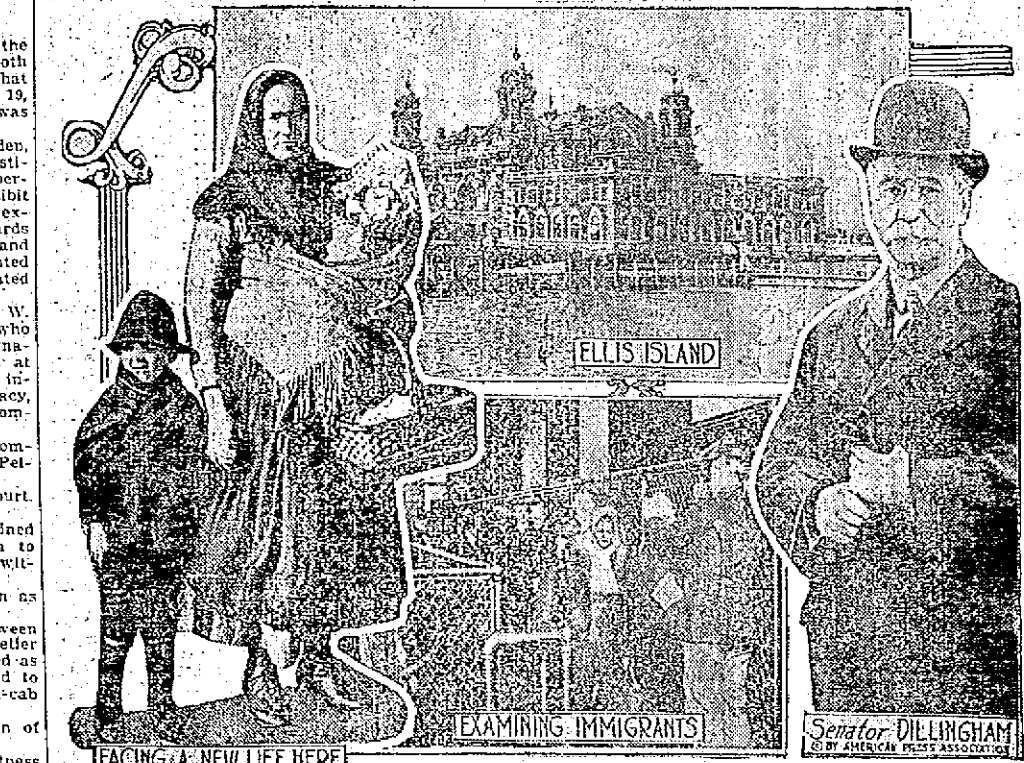

Rev. Allan Conant Ferris, vice president of the board of trustees adressed the class and presented the diplomas, after which Miss Gertrude Helen Hawthorne, president of the senior class, presented the school with two beautiful antique chairs as a gift from the class. They were accepted by the Rev. Appleton Grannis, of St. Anne's church who, in behalf of the school, thanked the class for the beautiful gifts. Rev. Mr. Grannis also stated that it was possible that an education building would be given to the school in the near future, by the alumni.

The class motto is "Ride, St. Saps."

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM UP AGAIN IN CONGRESS;
NEW PLAN TO BAR INFLUX OF UNDESIRABLES

WASHINGTON, June 2.—To carry out the recommendations of any nationality has been admitted all other aliens of such nationality who may apply for admission during the same fiscal year shall be excluded except that aliens returning for a temporary visit abroad and aliens coming to join near relatives, as well as members of professional and business classes, may be admitted without reference to such maximum number. It also provided that the secretary of labor may admit aliens in excess of the maximum number when, in his opinion, such action is justifiable as a measure of humanity. Transportation companies are subject to a fine of $100 for each alien brought to the United States in excess of the maximum number allowed. "The average annual immigration from Austria-Hungary during the last ten years," said Mr. Dillingham, "has been approximately 220,000, but under the bill immigration from that country would be limited to 167,000 annually, at least until the census of 1920 afforded a new basis for computation. Immigration from Italy has averaged 207,000 annually, but future immigration from that country would be limited to about 134,500, while Greece would be limited to 10,000 as compared with an average of about 20,000 in recent years. Apparently immigration from Turkey would be cut down about one-half. Of all the principal sources of southern and eastern European immigration Russia alone would seem to be little affected, as under the proposed law 173,500 immigrants could be admitted from that country annually as compared with an average of 35,000 immigrants in recent years and under the proposed law could send 250,000."

NINE HOURS IN ELEVEN BILL Is Not Permissive Says Attorney General—Amendments to the Salisbury Beach Bill

That the so-called "nine-hours-in-eleven" bill for street railway employees is not permissive, and if enacted into law, would not permit employees to work more than the hours specified, is the opinion of Attorney-General James M. Swift, submitted to the house yesterday afternoon. After quoting the bill in question, Mr. Swift said: "For the purpose of this inquiry, I assume the question to be whether or not it will be lawful for an employee affected by said bill, if he so desires, to work longer hours than those prescribed in the bill. In its final analysis the question resolves itself into the inquiry as to whether or not a street railway company which would be affected by the passage of this bill may permit labor to be performed not within the time prescribed in said bill. It is a familiar rule of interpretation of statutes that when certain exceptions are named in an act, excluding from this operation the exceptions as declared, other exceptions are thereunder this rule would therefore be that when the bill, in the last sentence of section 1, makes certain exceptions to its prohibitions, in the following language: "On legal holidays and on Sundays and in case of accident or unavoidable delay, extra labor may be performed for extra compensation."

The exceptions named are the only occasions when the employee may perform labor outside of the time prescribed in said section. Consideration of previous legislation covering the same subject confirms this conclusion. Section 3 of chapter 533 of the acts of 1912 provides as follows with reference to this particular contingency: "On legal holidays and on Sundays and in case of accident or unavoidable delay or emergency, or at any time at the request of the employee, extra labor may be performed for extra compensation."

"It is to be noted that the present bill omits the words, or other emergency, or at any time at the request of the employee thereby showing the intention to eliminate the occasions so omitted and to more definitely limit the exceptions to those contained in the bill under consideration, which, it may be observed, also include the word 'accident,' which was not in the 1912 act. The conclusion, therefore, seems to be irresistible that this bill should be construed as to limit the labor of employees covered by it so that it shall not exceed nine hours, so arranged that it shall be performed within 11 consecutive hours, except on legal holidays and in case of accident or unavoidable delay. I assume that the provision that on these occasions 'extra labor may be performed' should be construed to authorize the employer to require the extra labor so permitted. Upon consideration of section 1 alone, I am forced to the conclusion that upon any other occasion it will not be lawful for the employer to permit other work even if the employee so desires it.

"The provisions of section 2, that a company which violates any provision of this act shall forfeit for each offense, etc., also confirms this conclusion. The penalty provided is not against the requirement by the employer of more than nine hours' work for a day's labor, but it is against a violation of any provision of this act. The provisions declared in said section 1, which might be violated by the employer, are that a day's work shall not exceed nine hours; that they shall be so arranged that the labor may be performed within 11 consecutive hours; and that the employer shall not require more than the nine hours' work so established. It would seem that under the broad provisions of this penalty clause, except as permitted by the exceptions heretofore referred to,

an employer exceeding nine hours of labor or permitting such labor to be performed outside of the 11 consecutive hours provided by the bill, even at the request of an employee, would be subject to the penalty as described. The employer, therefore, will be prevented, in my opinion, from allowing more than the nine hours' work except upon the occasions already noted in said house bill No. 2518 becomes a law in its present form. If it is desired to leave the substitution so that the employee may, if he so desires, perform labor outside of the times prescribed by said act, I respectfully suggest that the bill should be amended to make this clear.

"Respectfully submitted,
"James M. Swift,
"Attorney-General."

When the bill was reached for action in the house, Representative Washburn of Worcester moved an amendment striking out the provision for extra labor with extra compensation on Sundays and in case of accident or unavoidable delay and substituting a clause that nothing in the act shall prevent an employee from working as many hours as he desires, thus making the bill permissive. This would do away with the question of constitutionality.

JACK GERRAGHTY A HERO Burns Hands Badly But Smothers Fire

BOSTON, June 3.—Jack Gerraghty is a fire hero. Out in Brookline last night the young man who first leaped into fame by wedding Julia French, a Newport society girl, leaped into the flames at Durgin's garage, Waldo street, in the Coolidge Corner section of Brookline, shortly after 8 o'clock.

The fire caused but little damage, because Gerraghty got it out in time, although it burned his hands quite badly. Shortly after 3 last night some one was filling the gasoline tank of the runabout owned by John C. Orcutt of Powell street, Brookline, which is quartered at the garage. There was a leak of gasoline and somehow this became ignited. The tank in the car holds 10 gallons. If it had got aflame there would be no Durgin's garage. At the auspicious moment entered Jack Gerraghty, who also keeps his machine in the garage. Without an instant's hesitation, he took in the situation and made a dash for a nearby fire extinguisher. This he used effectively. The contents of the extinguisher, however, proved not enough to subdue the blaze and so Gerraghty grabbed a robe and continued the battle, finally putting out the flames after both his hands had been burned. The proximity of the gasoline made the fire dangerous and its speedy ending saved the runabout and probably the garage.

Painter Falls From Boat
and Drowns

BOSTON, June 3.—Frederick Uhrig, 31, a painter of 3379 Washington street, Jamaica Plain, fell overboard from his motor boat yesterday afternoon in Boston harbor within 200 feet of Spectacle island and drowned while his two companions made vain efforts to reach him from the shore of the boat as he rose to the surface. No one of the party could swim.

Frank Uhrig, his brother, and Christian Meyer, his father-in-law, were with him in the boat. They had left their homes in the morning to spend the day fishing. Having found a prospectively good place, it was decided to cast anchor. It is said that Frederick Uhrig threw the anchor overboard, lost his balance and fell overboard with the rope entangled about his feet. Within a short time the assistance of the crew of the Dorchester lifesaving boat was secured. For hours the water was watched. The police and members of the lifesaving crew grappled for the body, but to no purpose. Late in the evening hope of rescuing the body was abandoned, but efforts will be renewed today.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM Restrictions Adopted by House Democrats

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The house democrats in caucus yesterday restricted the legislative program of the present extra session to tariff, currency, emergency, appropriations and election cases. Committee assignments as submitted by Chairman Underwood and his colleagues of the ways and means committee, were adopted by the caucus without change.

The legislative program as presented by Representative Underwood made binding on the democratic members of the standing committees of the house. The resolution by which this was accomplished, provided that no standing committees except the committees on ways and means, appropriations, banking and currency, elections, printing, accounts and rules, will report bills or resolutions to the house or have them placed on the calendar, without permission expressly granted by the democratic caucus.

Following up the action of the house earlier in the day in creating a committee on good roads, the caucus chose Representative Shackelford of Missouri for chairman and named Representative Dickinson of Missouri to succeed him as a member of the ways and means committee.

While the committee list was under consideration, Representative Boeher of Missouri and Representative Tribble of Georgia complained that Representatives Maher of New York and Hensley of Missouri had been "jumped" to make room for Representative Lewis of Maryland as chairman of the committee on labor. Mr. Lewis was ranked by the other two members on the committee in the last congress.

Representative Tribble said if organized labor was to dictate the selection of a chairman of the house committee on labor he would like to know why bankers should not dictate the chairmanship of the banking and currency committee, farmers the agriculture committee and so on.

The caucus gave Representative Lloyd of Missouri a silver loving cup in appreciation of his services as chairman of the democratic congressional committee. Representative Palmer presenting the cup, eulogized Mr. Lloyd's management of various campaigns.

Teachers of Agriculture Better Paid
It pays to teach agriculture. According to a bulletin issued by the United States bureau of education, the teacher of agriculture in the high school usually receives a considerable higher salary than the teacher of other subjects. The most usual salary for male teachers in high schools in the United States is $100, but for teachers of agriculture in the group studied the most usual salary was $1200. "Lack of teachers" is the explanation offered by the authors of the bulletin, C. H. Reibson and F. H. Jenks, to account for the relatively higher remuneration for those who teach agriculture. When the subject was first introduced into the schools a short summer course provided sufficient training; but with the extension of the work to include several years of careful high school study under scientific farming conditions, there has come a demand for trained agricultural teachers. Further, many of the states are giving aid to local high schools for agricultural instruction, so that these schools are able to pay better salaries for teachers of agriculture than for teachers of other branches. Not only is it found that the average pay of special instructors in agriculture is higher than of other teachers, but that teachers who are able to give such instruction in addition to regular work command better salaries than they otherwise would and are more likely to be advanced to principalships

MOTHER GIVES SENTENCE Her Son Stole—Must Earn Money and Settle

CHICAGO, June 3.—A mother was called upon to pass sentence upon her 13-year old son in the juvenile court yesterday after the boy had been found guilty of snatching a pocketbook from a woman on the streets. Judge Pinckney asked Mrs. Anna Burak, who had heard the testimony against her son Joseph, to determine his punishment. "You must earn the money to pay for what you stole," said the judge. "You must promise to be in bed every night by 9 o'clock, or I'll ask the judge to send you away until your hair grows gray," was the ruling. The court considered the decision good and approved the sentence.

Soiled Clothing Is Cleaned Best With Carbonol.

CARBONOL is a powerful disinfectant and a few teaspoonfuls of it in the tub will help greatly in the cleaning. It will kill all germs; remove stains and make the work easier.

That, however, is only one use of Carbonol. Carbonol has many other uses. It is more necessary to the housekeeper than soap. It will do all the work that soap can do and a great deal more, because it has the power to kill germs and dissolve grease.

It should be used in general housecleaning. A dash of it in the water that you use in scrubbing floors and washing down woodwork will make every drop of water an effective disinfectant.

In the kitchen it will help in cleaning greasy dishes and pans, and it will keep the waste pipes clear of grease. It will suppress odors in garbage and keep away the flies; it will clean the garbage can after it has been emptied; it will remove stains on woodwork or cloth; brighten dingy rugs.

In case of contagious diseases Carbonol should be used constantly and frequently to wash sickroom utensils and all bed linen and clothing of the patient.

The uses of this powerful product are simply endless.

We will send a free sample to experiment with and a booklet of directions for its use.

CHANCE ACQUAINTANCES

Another of the practical moves which have resulted from the Chicago vice investigation is the systematic warnings issued by the Illinois vigilance committee which points out to girls the danger of chance acquaintances. As an example of the practical nature of these warnings, news comes to hand that eight of the large railroads entering Chicago have posted such notices along their lines, advising girls who are traveling alone to Chicago to write to one of several organizations that they may be met at the train and saved from designing men and women.

The records of police courts and divorce courts give many concrete examples of the great danger of becoming friendly with chance acquaintances. In this case the standards of good manners are at the service of good morals. It is not considered proper to speak to people without having secured an introduction, and in most cases, it would be a wise rule to follow. At the same time there are cases where it is well to make exceptions, for to adhere too closely to convention would be to miss some of the finest friendships in the world. All who have taken ocean voyages attest to the fine free spirit that actuates the conduct of people on ocean liners, and all people when traveling have met individuals whose nature appealed to them, with the result that the world has been brightened by chance acquaintances.

But admitting this, it is very apparent that girls who are too free in making friends when traveling or at beaches or summer parks play with danger. They may meet with some most desirable acquaintances, but there are so many wolves in sheep's clothing that they are in great danger of regretting their rashness. It is a wise Eastern saying that "No one but God knows what is in the heart," and no one can be sure what guile is hidden under a smiling and fair exterior.

THE TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT

The local board of health is to be congratulated for securing the splendid tuberculosis exhibit which is to be on exhibition in the basement of the public library in a week or so. As this exhibition is the joint production of the state board of health, the Boston board of health, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which supplied the statistics, supplemented by a thousand photographs illustrating phases of the disease and methods for its prevention and cure, it ought to be especially interesting and instructive, and no means should be neglected which would result in public appreciation of its value.

Until a definite cure for tuberculosis is discovered, such displays as will be made locally next week have an extraordinary educational value, illustrating as they do, the latest discoveries of the scientific prevention and cure of tuberculosis. They will be particularly appropriate in cities such as ours where government statistics have shown that deaths from tuberculosis are most numerous among textile operatives. They will teach in a practical manner the great need for fresh air and sunshine, and they will do this in an attractive manner which will achieve good without arousing the antipathy which well-meant humanitarian movements too often arouse.

The exhibition of itself will be worthless unless the people are informed of its educational value, and strongly urged to attend. For this purpose, the board of health should supplement its wise action by such a campaign of publicity as would tend to make the exhibit well patronized. As it is to continue for a month, there is ample time in which to arouse interest, and all who can be of service to the board of health should assist them in making the anti-tuberculosis campaign beneficial to the greatest number.

WAKEFIELD'S PUBLIC BATHS

The town of Wakefield, which is not 100 miles away, has just taken an action which we might copy with advantage to ourselves and particularly to our juvenile population. Buildings connected with their public baths became so dilapidated that it was considered advisable by some to abandon them, but the town authorities got together and expressed their willingness to co-operate with the park department in the construction of newer and better accommodations. Because of the depleted condition of the treasury—a condition which has a local suggestion—the town voted to appropriate the immense sum of $50,000, and the park department set about the necessary repairs by calling for aid on the boys of the town, and those of the local athletic societies which were interested in the comfort and safety of the children.

What has been done in Wakefield could be done in Lowell. The difference in circumstances is a difference in degree only, and we might duplicate the action of the town authorities on a more ambitious scale. On June 17th, when the boys of Wakefield were taking advantage of the most enjoyable and sanitary summer sport known, our little ones in scores will dot the banks of muddy canals and turbid rivers in surreptitious delight. And when in June, July, August, or September, the mothers of Wakefield send their children out with a gratifying sense of safety to bathe under municipal supervision, some Lowell mothers will have the agonizing experience of having a still little figure borne in through the door through which sturdy little legs had run shortly before. We are bigger, busier, possibly more self-asserting than Wakefield, but we are not better in the matter of municipal baths.

SEVENTEENTH AMENDMENT

Secretary Bryan has signed the 17th amendment, much to his satisfaction, and the country has been given a valuable lesson on the great change that has come over the opinions of the people in recent years. This amendment, which ensures the direct election of senators, has been agitated for 87 years, and though now almost universally commented, it was looked upon as dangerous if not entirely reactionary until a comparatively recent period. It has not changed in essence, but there is a larger and broader interpretation of the extent of popular interference in democratic government. Democratic government while of course theoretically the most perfect on earth, is not without its drawbacks, and even the omniscient people make mistakes. This has led conservatives to say that there should be a limit to their direct influence, but modern thought says that they may be permitted to attend directly to most of their own affairs. To the argument that people will make mistakes, this modern thought says that they wish to make their own mistakes and not have others make them for them.

Direct primaries sound the death knell of the steam roller, the machine, and all the other discarded machinery of political parties. By the use of such in the past the popular will was often defied and men sat in the halls of congress who were not entitled to the honor, and based their success on mere chance, due to a flaw in the system of election. Now that the people have the direct election of senators in their own hands, they will have an opportunity to choose those who are to make their laws, without being compelled to submit to representation at the hands of one who unworthily hides under the robe of democratic usage. The people will make mistakes but they will discover them and remedy them before any great harm is done. Our system becomes more elastic yearly.

LOBBY INVESTIGATION

The people of the entire country will refuse to see that the recent declaration of the president with regard to the pernicious lobbying of interests inimical to the Underwood tariff measure, is to be followed by a practical investigation which will give both parties an opportunity to put their views of the matter before the country. Although no one can accurately foretell the result, such an investigation will do much to settle the boundaries of legitimate interference; the present cry against lobbying is by no means the first, and opinions have been long divided as to how far it is legitimate.

It can scarcely be doubted that the president will take a personal part in this senatorial investigation. He has always fully accepted the responsibility for his acts and declarations, and in the present instance he has announced that he welcomes the inquiry and has information regarding the tariff lobby which he is ready and willing to submit. Possibly when the investigation is concluded, the people will have an opportunity to judge whether recent adverse tariff prophecies have been sincere or prompted by selfish considerations.

CITY SEALER'S REPORT

Recent official and unofficial criticism of the city sealer's department has borne good fruit as is shown strikingly by the excellent report which has just been submitted to Commissioner Cummings by Sealer Stott. In the past such reports were made annually, but from now on they are to be made monthly, and the change will be for the better.

The itemized list of places visited, and work done, as shown in the sealer's report demonstrates that the duties of the position were well attended to during May, and it bespeaks a systematic method of attending to the work of the department which will ensure greater efficiency in a short time. The work is necessarily tedious and involved, and it is only by the application of a uniform and unvarying system that the state regulations can be properly enforced. It is to be hoped that it will not be necessary at any future time to have the state officials call here to assist in the enforcement of the law.

Seen and Heard

Mischa Ellman, the boy violinist, told on his last visit to New York, a story of his early childhood. "When I was very small indeed," he said, "I played at a reception at a Russian prince's, and for an archduke of Russia. I myself rattled off Beethoven's 'Kreutzer Sonata' finely. You know, you know, has in several long and impressive rests. Well, in one of these rests, a motherly old lady seated forward, patted my shoulder, and said:

"Play something you know, dear."

Despite the fact that the operator at central is invariably called the "hello girl," it is a fact that she rarely says "hello." When she gets under light, she says "number." When you flash for her by moving the receiver back up and down she comes across with an "operator." In fact, in the book of operating practice which operators have to know by heart there is no such word as "hello." The girl at central is properly known as "central."

A young housewife was showing a new and inexperienced colored maid around the house, explaining the various duties that would be here. In an upper hall they came suddenly to the head of the back stairs and the lady said:

"Nancy, you will go down this way always, and with that the little mistress slipped and tumbled going all the way down, with many lurches and bumps.

The new maid was abashed. "I am, miss, afraid I won't suit you all. Dat a-way go gold downstairs am a heap too strenuous for me."

This story is about a dowager whose wealth and education were of exceedingly recent acquisition. According to her accounts, the trip round the world that she had just completed had been socially most successful.

Some of her friends were questioning her about the places of interest that she had visited. "Did you see the Dardanelles?" asked one.

"And the Himalayas?" inquired another.

"Why, certainly," replied the dowager. "I dined with them both in Paris."

It was about 40 years ago that M. Raymond Louis Wolowski, a well-known French politician, who was by birth a Pole, proposed in the national assembly that the postal card should be recognized as a legitimate form of correspondence in France, and this was the beginning, so far as we know, of the postal card as we know it today.

But the real discovery of the postal card as a means of correspondence, it is said, was made long before by two young lovers living in distant villages. It was at the time before stamps existed and the receiver of a letter paid the charges to the post office. The daughter of a poor farmer received from time to time a letter from her lover, a soldier, but she was too poor to pay the postage and after having examined it intently she returned it to the postman. On the envelope were scratched numbers and figures, together with the post office address. One day a neighbor having pity on the young girl, who was too poor to pay the postage on letters which she was too poor to receive, offered to pay it. The girl refused, but the neighbor insisted. Once in possession of the letter she made no attempt to open it, but stood gazing at the envelope.

She was troubled almost a year with it and complained of backache, so that I thought she would be an invalid. She was entirely run down, pale, nervous and without appetite. I was very much discouraged but heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through friends and now I praise it because it has cured my daughter."—Mrs. F. M. ELSTON, R. D. Case of Another Girl.

Scanlon, Minn.—"I used to be bothered with nervous spells, and would cry if anyone was cross to me. I got awful weak spells especially in the morning, and my appetite was poor. I also had a tender place in my right side which pained when I did any hard work. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my symptoms all changed, and I am certainly feeling fine. I recommend it to every suffering woman or girl. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Miss ELLA OLSON, 171 5th St., Virginia, Minn.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FOR I HAVE YOU

Before you came, my heart knew naught but sadness; Until you taught me love, my world was drear; But now into my life you've woven gladness, And peace is mine, whenever you are near. I did not know the birds could sing so sweetly, I did not know the flowers could bloom so fair; But since you've come to rule my heart completely, The magic of your love is everywhere.

Without your smile, my world would lose its brightness; Without your face, the skies would seem so gray; Without your heart to give my own its lightness, The night would never turn into the day. When hard the fight and I am worn and weary, I crave your lips as roses crave the dew; Though once the days were long and life was dreary, I know that heaven is—for I have you! —Jerome P. Fleischman.

Railroad Fighting
Foster's Democratic Conditions in fighting the railroads have come to such a pass that nothing but resentment results from a proposition that, as they are paying more for what they get, the railroads should get more for the service they render. Subject them to the law of diminishing return returns long enough and there will be more resentment, but some theorists claim that corporations have no souls. So, give it to them; lash them; cast them into outer darkness!

Walk and Keep Well
Lawrence American: The man who enjoys walking is regarded as singular. When his friends are picking along, they pick him up, feeling that they do him a favor in helping him reach his destination. Mayor Gaynor of New York has had the habit for many years of walking daily to his office and back, three miles each way, and may have it still. He says the young men and women who crowd the street cars, many of the fellows puffing cigars, look at him as he walks along, as if he were a curiosity. Probably though, Mr. Gaynor, no kept up this exercise, he would today be underground, as the result of the assassin's bullet.

Optimism
Worcester Post: The optimistic view expressed by Henry Claws' financial letter of a great revival of business activity following settlement of the tariff and currency questions, and in spite of some other untoward factors, obviously is a general feeling shared by thoughtful observers. The proof of the fact is in the remarkably little effect of "tariff scare" tactics. And work and the desire for legislation, the needed legislation is, therefore, nothing less than a crime.

Modern Surgery
Portland Express: Washington promises to have solved the problem of keeping the rooster in the city from being an annoyance. By a simple operation to the vocal organs the cock can have all the fun of inditing its songs and going through the other phases of a soul-stirring crow, but the noise is missing. Now here is a triumph of surgery that promises to be a real boon to mankind.

the end is the gainer from all ably acquired and well spent wealth. A man sets his heart on high things and great ambitions, works as only the great can, and when he has won, he finds that ever was worth while in the thing he wrote, or built, or brought together, depends sooner or later to the public. The things that last whether they be books, parks, palaces, or pictures, are sooner or later bought by some man with a sense of fitness, who dedicated them in one way or another to the public. And what the public once really gets, is never given up.

Faith in Humanity
Springfield Union: One's faith in humanity is shocked by such revelations of imposture as come every once in a while in the big cities. In New York the other day a miserable wretch was sent to the workhouse for six months after it was proved that he taught young men to beg on the streets and took 25 per cent of their receipts. He had an income of $5000 from 10 youths, whom he had taught to bandage their hands, paint their hands and arms, and to beg and otherwise make themselves pitiable in the eyes of tender hearted people.

Lobbyists
Brooklyn Times: The voters' only hope for the abandonment of certain improper and damaging practices lies in their own power. They can elect men who are honest, capable and dependable. It is distinctly a voters' problem. Executives have been in the front lobby as householder, attempting to swat or shoot them away, but they come back, intent upon making a feast of the crumbs, the grains of sugar and the scraps of legislation. The lobby remedy, like the fly remedy, is prevention—don't give the creatures anything to breed on.

Told Stories at Lobby Investigation

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The senate struck out boldly yesterday on the trail of the "insidious lobby" which President Wilson declared is operating to modify the tariff bill. At the rate of four senators an hour the colleagues of the five men on the investigating sub-committee stepped to the witness chair, took the oath and then told their stories of senatorial wealth or poverty, or military circumstances, of business and professional connections, and of their interest or lack of it in the tariff measure.

Suspicion that the trail might prove a winding one with many a strange turning brought out a good sized crowd that listened intently to these tales from senatorial life. As senator after senator denied knowledge of the existence of an organized lobby, declared that improper influences had not been exerted upon him and that money to influence legislation had never appeared upon the congressional horizon at the present session, the crowd lost its appetite and slowly thinned out. The trail of the lobby was hard to find and spectators who looked for sensations went away empty handed. Senators who had served in congress for many years repeatedly testified during the all day session that they believed there was less personal appeal to members of the two houses now than at any tariff revision of recent years. Nearly a dozen and a half senators had been examined before the end of last night's session; and while they discussed freely their personal business affairs and the extent of their property investments, the committee found no evidence of the use of senatorial or outside influence to effect improperly tariff legislation.

The majority of the senators declared they did not consider men who legitimately appeared to present arguments to congress as lobbyists. Both democratic and republican senators expressed the opinion that "interested parties" had the right to present their cases either to individual senators or to committees of either house.

Names of a score or more men who have appeared to protest against a cut in sugar, wool, lead, meat, flour and similar duties are given by different senators but the only one referred to as a "lobbyist" was a "man named MacMurray" whom Senator Ashurst said he believed was attempting to influence action in favor of the approval of certain Indian contracts in which he was interested. Required by the committee to disclose any personal interests they might have in legislation, the senators told of farms, newspapers, sugar, oil, gas, gas plants and other things in which they had investments. All those who testified today declared that they had no interest in any business in any way affected by legislation now or previously before congress.

(From The Beauty Seeker)
An aged face is often only a mask to a comparatively youthful person. Beneath is a countenance young and fair to look upon. It is a simple matter to remove the mask. Ordinary mercerized wax, as he had at any drug store, gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin in a week or two, the user has the loveliest pinky white complexion imaginable. An ounce of the wax usually is sufficient to create the transformation. It is put on at night like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. This remarkable treatment is invariably effective, no matter how muddy, sallow or discolored the complexion. Freckles, moth-patches, liver spots, pimples, blackheads and other defects of the complexion naturally vanish with the discarded skin. To remove wrinkles, here is a recipe that cannot be too highly recommended: Take one part of powdered zinc, dissolved in 2-part witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. It acts instantaneously and is wonderfully effective.

"Grasshopper Year"
WASHINGTON, June 3.—"This looks like a grasshopper year," was the comment today of Prof. F. M. Webster of the bureau of entomology after the fourth outbreak of the invaders had been reported to him. The latest appearance of the "hoppers" is in 1913, previous states afflicted being New Mexico, Idaho and California. An army-worm invasion reported today as having occurred near St. Louis is giving the government's insect fighters here considerable worry. It was acknowledged.

OLD DELUGE WATER GUN

Tested This Morning by
Chief Saunders

FEET HIGH

Chief Saunders Well Pleased With the
Test and Will Use the Gun in Big
Fires

Chief Edward P. Saunders and members of the local fire department tested a Deluge set gun this morning that has been owned by the fire department for the past thirty years and that has only been used once during that time, the one occasion being the time of the fire in the Masonic temple on Sunday, April 6, 1905.

The tryout was made at the canal on Cheever street near the Catons street bridge, and Chief Saunders expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the result. The water was pumped from the canal by engine 4, which has been owned by the department since the year 1888, and has recently been thoroughly overhauled by the members of the Central station.

It had been rumored throughout the city that the test was going to be made and a large number of citizens were on hand to witness the exhibition. The gun is about four feet long and has three streams attached to it, but it can be used with one or two streams if desired. To operate the gun properly it is necessary to have three men hold it and the force is so strong that the position of the nozzle cannot be changed. The men were stationed on the Cheever street side of the canal and threw the stream toward the buildings on the other side, the water reaching a height of over a hundred feet. The same hose was used as is used on an ordinary nozzle. The test lasted but a few minutes and Chief Saunders stated afterwards that the gun would be in use more in the future if the fire was serious enough, as with the three streams more space can be covered at one time.

TOURING THE WORLD IN A CHAIR

W. W. Graff Arrived Here
Yesterday—To Remain
a Week

Touring the world in an invalid chair is the task undertaken by William W. Graff of Toledo, Ohio, who has been a cripple 23 years, suffering from chronic rheumatism, which set in when he was 10 years of age. The traveler arrived in this city yesterday, coming from Worcester and this morning he called at The Sun office, radiating good cheer with his famous smile that has won the admiration of the people in every city he has visited.

Mr. Graff started on his trip five years ago, the object being to raise funds with which to defray expenses of a trip to Baden-Baden, Germany, where he believes that cure for his sufferings may be found. He came to this city some two years ago and was received with open arms by the residents of the Spindle City.

The visitor called at the license commissioner's office yesterday afternoon and secured a permit to sell pencils and postal cards in Lowell, for he is not a beggar, nor does he ask any one for anything for which he is not willing to give an adequate return. The permit was given him gratis, and this led him to remark that in Hartford, Conn., he was assessed the sum of five dollars for the privilege of selling pencils in the street. However, the money was refunded him while in Worcester, when he received a letter containing a five spot from a woman resident of Hartford, who said she was ashamed of the actions of the license commissioners. Mr. Graff while on the road covered a distance of 27,000 miles. He will remain in Lowell a week and then travel northward.

A. Girard, a pretty young woman of 21 years, said she had married her husband not knowing that he was a thief, but she soon became aware of it and then was forced to make the best of it with the result that she fell in with his mode of living.

The young woman who said her relatives live at 225 North Second street, New Bedford, was arrested late yesterday afternoon in an uptown department store with her husband, Henry J. Girard, aged 22, on the charge of shoplifting. They were watched by inspectors Burr and O'Neil, who became suspicious of the pair, and followed them through a number of stores and saw them saw them steal articles.

Woman Who Refused to Strike—Ed-

PATERSON, N. J., June 3.—The Paterson silk strike, passed its 13th week yesterday unmarked by any general break in the ranks of idle operatives. A few stragglers returned. There was no attempt to interfere with them.

Abraham Fellman, a weaver, committed suicide yesterday when the broad silk weavers did not return to their homes. His wife, early yesterday, went to New York to visit their five children who were recently taken there by members of the Industrial Workers of the World, and are being cared for by charitable persons. She returned to find Fellman dead in the bath room. He had inhaled illuminating gas.

Indemnity Statement
Alexander Scott, editor of the Passaic Weekly Inquirer, was placed on trial yesterday under an indictment charging him with publishing inflammatory statements and cartoons regarding the industry in which the Paterson police have dealt with the strike situation. The jury was completed and the trial adjourned until today.

An explosion last night wrecked part of the house where lives Mrs. Marie Pastana, a broad silk weaver, who refused to strike because she needed wages to care for an invalid husband. Strikers and sympathizers had threatened her with "trouble" she told the police. The explosive was in a barrel in the cellar. The building caught fire but quick work by the firemen prevented the flames from spreading. No one was hurt by the explosion.

A companion named McDonald, from West Stewarton, was with him when he fled the asylum last night, but later McDonald was recaptured.

PROBE OF THE "LOBBY"

One-Fifth of Senators
Disposed of

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The second day of the senate probe of the "lobby" began with approximately one-fifth of the total number of senators disposed of. At such a rate of progress it would take four days more to finish the investigation. The senate has allowed ten working hours, morning, afternoon and night sessions and under the consent of the senate itself is absent themselves from regular sessions in order to hear witnesses, members of the sub committee taking the testimony were confident today they would finish this week.

Senator Brady of Idaho, one of the new members had not finished his testimony when the investigators stopped last night and he was ready to proceed today. The first day's inquiry had developed a mass of "the lobby" not disposed of and a mass of "the lobby" not disposed of and a mass of "the lobby" not disposed of.

Senator McLean, however, was called as the first witness. He gave a list of various callers who discussed the tariff with him but he considered none of them lobbyists.

Worms in Children.

By Dr. True

If mothers only knew the tortures the little ones may suffer from worms!

Thousands of children have stomach worms or pin worms and their parents do not know it. They doctor them for other ailments.

Signs of worms are:

Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abnormal craving for sweets; nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; face at one time flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull leaden hue. Eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; starting during sleep; slow fever; pulse quickened and irregular; body maybe hot; and often, in children, convulsions.

Don't delay! Delays are dangerous. Give the children at once some of Dr. True's Elixir. Directions on the bottle. Sold by all dealers at 35c, 50c and $1.00. Thousands of grateful mothers have given me Dr. True's Elixir to sick children and restored them to health.

REMOVE COMMISSIONER

N. Y. Aldermen Want
Waldo Ousted

RESULT OF INVESTIGATION OF
N. Y. POLICE DEPARTMENT

Report Characterizes Commissioner as Incompetent and Unfit—Inquiry Follows Murder of Gambler Rosenthal

NEW YORK, June 3.—The removal of Rhinelander Waldo as police commissioner, an appointive post he has held for two years under Mayor Gaynor, is recommended in a majority report adopted yesterday by the aldermanic committee that investigated the police department after Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was slain last July by gunmen, hired by former Police Lieut. Charles Becker. The report was intended to go to Gov. Sulzer but at the last minute an amendment was passed directing the recommendation for removal to the mayor. The board of aldermen, as a whole, must pass on the report before it can reach Mr. Gaynor. The committee yesterday stood four to three in favor of the report. Two members did not vote.

Incompetent and Unfit

Commissioner Waldo is characterized in the report as "incompetent and unfit," and incapable of administering his department. "Many of the existing evils of the department can be directly traced to his inefficiency and administrative blunders," the report charges. It sets forth in detail the committee's reasons for recommending the removal of the commissioner. Alleged failure to prevent a widespread system of blackmail and extortion by certain of his subordinates is one of the open reasons mentioned.

The report says Commissioner Waldo gave no assistance to the investigation committee but "sought to obstruct and hinder" the investigation.

"Amazement" is expressed in the report that many police officials, including the commissioner, his secretary, a deputy commissioner and one of the recently convicted inspectors, all refused to testify before the committee unless permitted to do so "without waiving immunity from prosecution."

After a conference with Mayor Gaynor, Commissioner Waldo said he considered the action of the committee due to politics. The mayor, he added, had not removed him and he had no intention of resigning. Mayor Gaynor would not discuss the committee's report.

How Bad Backs Have Been Made Strong—Kidney Pills
Corrected

All over Lowell you hear it. Doan's Kidney Pills are keeping up the good work. Lowell people are telling about it—telling of bad backs made sound again. You can believe the testimony of your own townspeople. They tell it for the benefit of you who are suffering. If your back aches, if you feel lame, sore and miserable, if the kidneys act too frequently, or passages are painful, scanty and off color, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has helped so many of your friends and neighbors. Follow this Lowell citizen's advice and give Doan's a chance to do the same for you.

Mrs. John Riley, 25 Smith ave., Lowell, Mass., says: "Something like two years ago my kidneys began to bother me. My back ached and I had ringing noises in my ears. The kidney secretions were unnatural and caused annoyance. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and two boxes cured me. Others of my family swear by Doan's Kidney Pills."

Only a half game between Lowell and Lawrence now. The race has been promised to be the most exciting contest that usually characterizes the winning of the New England league pennant.

Walter Johnson was again defeated yesterday for his second consecutive game. Baker, of world series fame, was there with his big club and put over a home run as well as a two-bagger. The Athletics look better every game that they play.

President Navin of the Detroit club is very emphatic in his denial of the alleged trade of Cobb for Hal Chase. He labels the report as "extremely silly." The Detroit president is a talker, too, when he gets down to business as one of the principals in the proposed trade well known.

If Eddie Cawley, the crack shortstop of the local high school team, wanted to go into professional ball he could get plenty of contracts to sign. This schoolboy is a much classier performer than the majority of men playing his position in the New England league today and can be developed into a wonder.

Manager Coughlin of the Burkes baseball team has announced that his team will again furnish part of the program at a field day to be held in this city within the month. "Nixey" has been bested with profits of games from out of town clubs since the victory of the Burkes over the South Ends.

The Boston Arena will be the scene of a meeting tonight between a hard hitting fighter and a clever boxer. Mike Gibbons of St. Paul will meet Joe White of South Boston and the bout promises to be a dandy. Gibbons is reckoned as the cleverest boxer of his weight in the country.

Although John Paul Jones has vindicated his claim to premier honors in the mile run there are many who would like to see Abe Klat of the Irish-American A. C. and the Cornell captain in a matched race over the distance. After Jones' exhibition last Saturday at the stadium it would not be surprising to see the record lowered several seconds in the event of these two great millers meeting.

It is persistently rumored that a new athletic organization has been formed in this city with the fundamental object in view of promoting exhibitions in the main part. There is a great opportunity for a club here in Lowell provided that bona fide exhibitions are given to its members. One or two fakes are enough to place any club under the ban of the sporting public.

Henry Sullivan, the Centralville swimmer, has written to Joe McCaffrey of this city and says that he is in the pink of condition. He has just opened his training quarters at Dover, England, and is being handled every day by men who are intimate with all the whims of the cross currents which will make his swim of the English channel very hard and dangerous feat. We all wish him success.

Bedford Game

The Red Sox defeated the lowly Highlanders yesterday in both games of their double header, taking the first 4 to 3 and the second 5 to 4. Bedient was called to the rescue in the ninth inning of the first game when Leonard became rather erratic and in the eighth inning of the second contest when Wood showed signs of an ascension. In both games Boston played faster ball than New York although the Highlanders outbatted and outfielded Manager Stahl's team in the first contest.

Manager Chance endeavored to break the losing streak of his team by sending his team in to bat first in the last game but the attempt proved fruitless. Boston landed on McConnell hard in the sixth inning and forced him to retire. Five of Boston's eight runs came across in this session.

Lowell won a lucky game from New Bedford yesterday. Manager Connaughton of the Whalers, helping out the win by a bad error in the seventh inning with the score tied. The bases were choked at the time and two men came across with the runs which resulted in a 5 to 3 win for Lowell.

Kinz, a recruit southpaw, pitched good ball for New Bedford. Zeiser, who was on the slab for Lowell, was hit hard throughout the contest, and was very fortunate to pull the game out. New Bedford scored nine hits off his Pete Clemens played a nice game for Lowell, making a difficult catch in deep center field and connecting safely twice. He also stole a brace of bases and scored two of Lowell's runs. Kinz was the only Whaler who stole a base on Daly.

DAUBERT IS GREATEST FIRST BASEMAN OF
ALL TIME, SAYS MANAGER BILL DAHLENTHREE VIEWS OF JAKE DAUBERT
PHOTOS BY AMERICA PRESS ASSOCIATION

When asked recently who he lyn replied right off the reel, "Jake Daubert was the greatest first base- Daubert." And Bill has seen many of men Manager Bill Dahlen of Brook-twenty odd years on the diamond. In talking about Daubert recently Dahlen said: "Jake has no weakness. He gets grounders, wild and high ones, as well as he does the straight ones. He can throw as accurately as any man I ever saw. No man covers more ground than the man who holds first base for Brooklyn. As a batter he is among the heaviest we have in the National league. He is also one of the speediest base runners in the circuit." Some years ago the palm was handed to Hat Chase. True, Hat is a wonder. He has made plays that Jake would never accomplish, but he is far more erratic in his play. He is not the steady, plugging, always brilliant, pastime. Chase is of finer clay than Daubert and therefore more susceptible to injury.

BIG LEAGUE WITH CARDINALS

George B. Whitted of the Cardinals will bear watching. He is a substitute infielder who did so well at third that he was shifted over to short, where he again made good. He is regarded as the fastest runner on the team, though he can't get down to first as quick as some others, because he has not yet learned the knack of a quick start. As a batter Whitted shines, because he is better in a pinch than at any other time. Having control of his nerves, he performs better when more depends on his performance. He swings hard, and when he hits the ball it makes a hurried trip away from the home plate. Whitted comes from Durham, N. C. Last summer he played with the champion, Jacksonville team of the South Atlantic league.

She is "Commandant" Mrs. McNeil and is in charge of the station there. It has long been in disuse but Mrs. McNeil resides there and looks after the building, receiving a stipend of $1 a day.

CRAWLEY PLAYED GREAT GAME

Though Lowell High Was Defeated by Score of
Six to FourEDDIE CRAWLEY,
Shortstop Lowell High

Lowell high lost a close and hard fought game yesterday when her baseball team met the representatives of the Boston English high school at Spaulding park. The score, 6 to 4, shows the relative playing strength of each team.

Eddie Cawley, the crack shortstop of the local school team, was directly responsible for three of Lowell's runs, his great all around work being the feature of the contest. His flying, hitting and base running were all of big league caliber.

Wilson was in the box for the locals and pitched a steady game. He used his head to good advantage throughout the contest, seldom proving the ball. With fair support by his team Wilson would have pulled the game out.

Carter played a nice game at first base. He and Cawley proved the whole life of the infield and several hard hit balls that were labeled safeties were converted into putouts by the pair.

Lowell seemed to be lacking in team work. Their base running cut off chances to win the game on two different occasions. Individually, however, the schoolboys played the best game that they have exhibited this season. The score:
